

NFL Week 4 Master Betting Intelligence Report

What to bet this week, why we like it, and what every expert and betting market is saying

Built Sat Oct 3, 8:34 PM PT · Prices from Bookmaker as of Sat Oct 3, 10:46 AM PT — always check the price on your bet slip

Recommendations and research only. Nothing in this report has been bet. Prediction-market percentages (Kalshi, DraftKings Predictions) are not sportsbook odds, so don't compare them directly.

Slate Status — Sat Oct 03, 20:34 PT

What is the Slate Status? A quick snapshot of the news that changes how to read this report: games already played, quarterback changes, where the big-money bettors are putting their money, and players the sportsbook has taken off its menu (usually an injury or lineup question). Check it before placing anything.

- Played: PIT@CLE 🏁 FINAL — PIT 24, CLE 27. 15 games remain.
- Quarterback changes (out or doubtful): WAS Jayden Daniels Out, CHI Caleb Williams Out, TB Baker Mayfield Out.
- Big-money ("sharp") signals — share of money beats share of bets by 15+ points, at the line when first seen: JAX ML +129 (JAX@CIN), ARI ML -143 (ARI@NYG), TEN ML +492 (TEN@BAL), DAL ML +144 (DAL@HOU), MIA +10 (-109) (MIA@MIN), MIA ML +430 (MIA@MIN), LAC ML +269 (LAC@SEA), ATL ML +112 (ATL@NO). Full detail in Section 6.
- Pulled from the Bookmaker menu (listed without odds — check status): IND@WAS: Antonio Williams, Chigoziem Okonkwo, Jacory Croskey-Merritt, Keenan Allen, Marcus Mariota, Stefon Diggs, Terry McLaurin, Tyler Warren; MIA@MIN: Jaylen Wright, Ryan Miller; LAC@SEA: Jadarian Price; DET@CAR: no player props priced at capture (28 players listed, all without odds) — the whole menu is off, not an injury signal.
- Known data gaps: No cleaned YouTube pick digest this week; DK Predictions saves for 0 of 15 remaining games — details in Section 11.
- How to use this page: 💡 hover or tap an underlined column header for its definition; click a header to sort; use the buttons on each section to open or close it.

Table of Contents

PART A — WHAT TO BET

★ Our Picks This Week

Everything we recommend betting this week in one place: straight bets, parlays, prop stacks and SuperContest picks.

2. Player Props

A pool of player props to build your own tickets, grouped by game, plus the prop boards (tackles + assists, 2+ passing TDs, article favorites).

4. The Underdog Upset Ticket

The underdogs we like to win outright, and why each one is on the ticket.

1. Every Bet, Ranked

Every pick on the card, strongest first, then the same plays grouped by sides, totals and props. Stars rank our picks against each other; they are not win chances.

3. Teaser Bets

Games where a 6-point teaser (moving the spread in your favor for a smaller payout) makes the most sense.

5. Survivor Pool Picks

The safest teams to pick in a survivor pool this week, how popular each pick is, and who to save for later.

🧠 PART B — WHY WE LIKE THEM

The Week at a Glance

The handful of things to know about this week: top reads, one-sided consensus, clashes, big money and quarterback news.

6. Game-by-Game Breakdowns

One box per game: our projected score, the case for the pick and what could go wrong, plus the odds, win chances and where the bets and money are going.

7. What the Experts Say

How many betting experts picked each side of every game, and where they agree or are split.

📖 PART C — REFERENCE

8. Expert Pick Registry

Every named expert pick we captured, by game. The game write-ups link here when they cite an expert.

9. Betting Trends

Past betting records and situations that point to a side this week. Useful for breaking ties, not a reason on their own.

10. How the Card Was Built

Every ticket on the card and the season build rules behind them.

11. Sources & Data Notes

What the report was built from, which feeds were working, and what data is missing this week.

Part A — What to bet

Every pick and ticket, ready for the slip.

New York Jets @ Chicago Bears — NYJ +3.5 -103 / NYJ ML +167 (4.0★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	NYJ +3.5 -103 / NYJ ML +167	NYJ	4.0 ★★★★☆	proj CHI by 3; Fezzik , Tucker, Middleton, Action Network , BettingPros , Reynolds NYJ; Bagent starts; NYJ passing offense vs CHI defense HIGH (our matchup numbers and 2+ experts agree; experts 5–2 in favor)

 Our projected score: NYJ 20 – CHI 23

 Why: The named experts favor New York on price: Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money, both at +3.5), Action Network's contest pick, BettingPros at +3, Wes Reynolds of VSiN (+3.5) and Kendra Middleton ("an even better spot if Bagent starts"). The CHI side is Mike Florio (Bears 27–17), Andrew Erickson's BettingPros primer (–3.5) and a BettingPros pick at –3.5 that was written around Case Keenum starting. Dave Tuley of VSiN passes. ESPN and Pro Football Talk both report that Bagent is expected to start, the condition Kendra Middleton named. Splits lean Chicago, 57% of tickets and 62% of money, no sharp gap; the NYJ moneyline has 13% of tickets and 18% of money. The line went from the Action Network open of CHI –3 to –3.5. The lean is NYJ +3.5 for the hook; the projection lands on the 43 total, and the only total signal is a wind-under system in Evan Abrams' primer, so no total. Card: Single NYJ +3.5 ($10) for the hook, and the NYJ moneyline is one of the six dogs in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR. NYJ +3.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

 Dallas Cowboys @ Houston Texans — HOU ML -160 (4.0★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	HOU ML -160	HOU	4.0 ★★★★☆	proj HOU by 4; Collins back vs DAL secondary (HIGH 10.09); winless system HOU; road dogs off international game 1-12 SU; DAL ML sharp flag (counter) (our matchup numbers and 2+ experts agree; experts 11-5 in favor)

 Our projected score: DAL 22 – HOU 26

 Why: Read in full, the experts lean Houston. HOU: Action Network (Brandon Anderson and its preview), Sharp or Square (Chad Millman and Simon Hunter, who flagged sharp money on Houston early), BettingPros at -1.5, Jason Radowitz of BettingPros at -2.5, Stuckey, Kendra Middleton, Jason Logan, PJ Walsh's PRO projection at -3, and Wes Reynolds and Zachary Cohen of VSiN on the moneyline. DAL: Steve Fezzik (+3.5), Ross Tucker (teased to +8.5), Matt Moore (+2.5), Joe Gibbs, BettingPros at +1.5, Travis Pulver of BettingPros (moneyline), Dave Tuley of VSiN (+3.5, and +8.5 in teasers as his best bet) and Mike Florio (Cowboys 27-20). Evan Abrams' primer adds two Houston-side notes: the winless-team system plays on the Texans, and road underdogs coming off an international game are 1-12 straight up in their last 13 since 2018. Signals conflict: DAL has 80% of spread tickets and 83% of the money, yet the line moved against them from the Action Network open of HOU -1.5 to -3, a reverse move. Meanwhile the DAL moneyline is a big-money flag (54% of tickets, 73% of money). Every HOU -2.5 position is now at -3, the key number. The lean is Houston, but the spread price is gone: the HOU moneyline (-160) as a parlay leg or Collins receiving. The projection sits half a point under 48.5. Joe Gibbs has the over at 47.5 (a penalty-heavy crew) and Andrew Erickson the under 48.5, so pass the total. Card: the HOU moneyline leads the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay, and David Montgomery 2+ TDs is in the 8b

2+ TD 3-leg. HOU -2.5 is a SuperContest alternate. The DAL moneyline big-money flag is the counter.

  Miami Dolphins @ Minnesota Vikings — MIA +10 -109 (3.5★) — Sun 13:05 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	MIA +10 -109	MIA	3.5 ★★★★☆	proj MIN by 8; two sharp flags; Walsh PRO, Makinen, Reynolds, Action Network , Sharp or Square , Stuckey MIA; 2 systems MIA (2+ experts picked it; experts 6–3 in favor; big money agrees)

 Our projected score: MIA 14 – MIN 22

 Why: MIA: Action Network (+11), Sharp or Square (+11), Stuckey, and three more at +10.5: PJ Walsh's PRO projection, and Steve Makinen and Wes Reynolds of VSiN. MIN: Derrik Klassen (–10.5) and Mike Florio (Vikings 24–14); Dave Tuley passes. Under: Doug Kezirian of Action Network and SDQL GURU (38.5), Josh Shepardson of Sharp Football (39, a best bet), Andrew Erickson (39.5) and BettingPros (41.5). Evan Abrams' primer has two systems on Miami (fading no-pedigree favorites, and the winless-team system). There are two big-money flags on Miami: MIA +10 has 30% of tickets and 46% of the money, and the MIA moneyline has 4% of tickets and 26% of the money. The line went from the Action Network open of MIN –10.5 to –10, and the total from 42.5 to 38.5. The lean is MIA +10. The under is the right side but four points are already gone; Action Network's Evan likes Willis' rushing over as the prop. Card: Single MIA +10 ($15) is the biggest single, MIA +10 is also in the Slot 5 Hybrid, and MIA +10.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (book +10 on both SuperContest tickets). The 7b Afternoon prop stack carries a Malik Willis interception, a deliberate partial hedge against the MIA spread.

 Arizona Cardinals @ New York Giants — ARI ML -143 / -2.5 -110 (3.0★)
— Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	ARI ML -143 / -2.5 -110	ARI	3.0 ★★★★☆	proj ARI by 4; line flipped 5 pts on Dart news; sharp ML flag (62% / 78% money); ARI passing offense vs NYG defense HIGH 7.32 (our matchup numbers and 2+ experts agree; more experts on the other side (4-3))

 Our projected score: ARI 24 – NYG 20

 Why: The line flipped five points, from the Action Network open of NYG -2.5 to ARI -2.5, on the Dart news. ARI: Chad Millman (on Arizona early), Sharp or Square (+1.5 before the flip) and BettingPros on the moneyline ("Winston is unreliable as a market favorite"). NYG: Brandon Anderson (+2.5, "the line shouldn't have flipped this much"), Steve Makinen of VSiN (+2.5, "not sure the right team is favored here"), Matt Moore (+1.5 contest pick), Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker teasing NYG to +7.5, and Mike Florio (Giants 23-17). The two contest picks are at the contest's +1.5. Andrew Erickson ("stay away") and Dave Tuley both pass. Money agrees with the move: ARI has 62% of spread tickets and 69% of the money, and the ARI moneyline is a big-money flag (62% of tickets, 78% of money). The lean is ARI -2.5 or the -143 moneyline. On the total, Action Network has over 44.5 and Zachary Cohen of VSiN has Jameis Winston's passing overs; Evan Abrams' primer notes Winston is 17-6 to the over in October in his career, while a wind-under system points the other way. The projection is half a point under, so pass the total; Winston's passing yards are the better angle. Card: the ARI moneyline anchors the Slot 3 Morning parlay, the Slot 5 Hybrid and the 2-leg ARI ML + JAX ML ticket; ARI -1.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets). The 7a Morning prop stack carries Jacoby Brissett 2+ passing TDs and a Jameis Winston interception.

 Denver Broncos @ San Francisco 49ers — DEN +2.5 -104 / DEN ML +126 (3.0★) — Sun 13:25 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	DEN +2.5 -104 / DEN ML +126	DEN	3.0 ★★★★☆	proj SF by 1; 11-2 experts DEN; reverse line move SF -3 → -2.5; Bosa + M.Williams OUT (2+ experts picked it; experts 9-2 in favor)

 Our projected score: DEN 23 – SF 24

 Why: This is the most one-sided expert game on the slate. DEN: Action Network, Sharp or Square, Steve Fezzik, BettingPros, Chad Millman (his "trade of the week," calling the reverse line move sharp), John Jastremski, Evan Abrams, Matt Moore, Andrew Erickson (+3) and Dave Tuley of VSiN (+8.5 in teasers, a best bet). SF: Mike Florio (49ers 24–20) and Steve Makinen of VSiN (–3, a best bet). Splits: SF has 60% of spread tickets and 64% of the money and 84% of moneyline tickets, yet the line came down from the Action Network open of SF –3 to –2.5. Every DEN +3 position is now +2.5, past the key number. The lean is DEN +2.5 or the +126 moneyline, plus McCaffrey receiving. On the total, 60% of the money is on the under against 52% of tickets, and the total is up from 45.5 to 48; small under lean. Card: the heaviest exposure on the card (about $85). The DEN moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR, the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay and the Slot 5 Hybrid; DEN +2.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets); DEN +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL. A 49ers win by 3 or more hurts six tickets at once.

 New England Patriots @ Buffalo Bills — NE +7 -113 (2.5★) · Under 50 -108 (2.0★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	NE +7 -113	NE	2.5 ★★★★☆	proj BUF by 6; 6-4 named experts NE (Fezzik , Erickson , Makinen, Tuley, Youmans, Reynolds); 5 Bet Labs systems NE; Vrabel 30-18-2 ATS as 3+ dog; key number 7 (2+ experts picked it)
Total	Under 50 -108	Under	2.0 ★★★★☆	proj 48; wind + divisional-high-total under systems (partial expert support)

 Our projected score: NE 21 – BUF 27

 Why: Read in full, the expert columns lean New England 6–4. NE: Steve Fezzik (Even Money) at +7, Andrew Erickson at +7.5 (New England has covered 5 of the last 6 in the series), and four VSiN best bets: Steve Makinen and Dave Tuley at +6.5, Matt Youmans and Wes Reynolds at +7; Ross Tucker leans NE. BUF: Action Network, BettingPros, Sharp or Square and Mike Florio (Bills 34–21), most at –6.5. Evan Abrams' primer has eight systems firing in this game, five on the New England spread (great-condition divisional road dogs, underdogs off a blowout loss and fading the public after a poor offensive game among them) and two on the under; as a 3-point-plus underdog, Mike Vrabel is 30–18–2 against the spread. Splits are public on Buffalo, 60% of tickets and 65% of money, no sharp gap. The Action Network open was –6.5; the line now sits on the key number 7. On that evidence the projection moves a point toward New England each way (Buffalo by six, down from eight), so the lean flips from Buffalo-without-the-7 to NE +7, with Cook to score as the Buffalo-side prop. The projected 48 is under the 50 total and both under systems agree, a small under lean; BettingPros' over 48.5 is now a point and a half worse. Card: NE +7 is a leg of the Slot 5 Hybrid, and it's the default option for the unused Bills credits (Andy decides after the report). NE +6.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

 Los Angeles Rams @ Philadelphia Eagles — LAR ML -197 / -3.5 -108 (2.5★) · Under 42.5 -108 (2.0★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	LAR ML -197 / -3.5 -108	LAR	2.5 ★★★★☆	proj LAR by 5; PHI without D.Smith, H.Brown, Goedert; 7-6 experts LAR (Youmans ML best bet, Erickson -3.5); 4 Bet Labs systems PHI (counter) (2+ experts picked it)
Total	Under 42.5 -108	Under	2.0 ★★★☆☆	proj 41; total 46 → 42.5 (partial expert support)

 Our projected score: LAR 23 – PHI 18

 Why: The named experts lean PHI: Steve Fezzik (Even Money, +3.5 contest pick and +3 for 2 units, citing the Rams' travel), Sharp or Square (Simon Hunter), Chad Millman (+3), Matt Moore (+2.5), Jason Radowitz of BettingPros (+3) and a Ross Tucker lean. LAR: BettingPros (-2.5), Andrew Erickson and Action Network's preview (-3.5), Matt Youmans of VSiN (moneyline, a best bet), Joe Gibbs (-3; home dogs cover 37% under this referee), Evan Abrams and Mike Florio (Rams 30-20). Dave Tuley of VSiN passes. Read in full, the columns split 7-6 toward the Rams. Tickets are 50/50 on the spread, but 61% of the money is on LAR; the PHI moneyline has 23% of tickets and 15% of money. The line went from the Action Network open of LAR -2.5 to -3.5, and the total from 46 to 42.5, as the receiver news landed. The half point is Action Network against Bookmaker and could be book noise, but it crosses the 3. Most of the PHI backers bet before the receivers were ruled out, but there's a real counterweight: Evan Abrams' primer has four systems on the Eagles (a team that lost by 20 last week, underdogs off a blowout loss, fading the public after a poor offensive game, and a first-half version), so the Rams side is better as the moneyline or a parlay leg than the spread at -3.5. The lean is LAR and the under, plus Williams to score. Card: the LAR moneyline is in the Slot 3 Morning parlay, LAR -3 is a proposed SuperContest pick (book -3.5 on both SuperContest tickets), and Matthew Stafford 2+ passing TDs is in the 7a Morning prop stack. The under is left off (no full-game unders in parlays).

 Green Bay Packers @ Tampa Bay Buccaneers — Under 39.5 -119 (2.5★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Total	Under 39.5 -119	Under	2.5 ★★★★☆☆	proj 37; Fezzik , Shepardson (best bet), Erickson lean; Jalon Daniels first start; 87F (2+ experts picked it)

 Our projected score: GB 21 – TB 16

 Why: This is the biggest move on the slate: TB went from -2.5 at the Action Network open to +3, and the total from 46 to 39.5. The named picks lean TB: Chad Millman (+3.5 home dog), Brandon Anderson (+3.5 contest pick) Action Network (TB moneyline in a dog parlay) and Wes Reynolds of VSiN (TB +9.5 as a teaser leg). The GB picks are Mike Florio (Packers 21-13) and Andrew Erickson, who lists an alternate GB -9.5 while saying his "real lean is the under," so the GB projection goes against the expert majority; Millman and Anderson both took +3.5, half a point better than now. Under: Steve Fezzik (39.5), Josh Shepardson of Sharp Football (38.5, a best bet) and Erickson's lean (38.5); Dave Tuley passes. Evan Abrams' primer splits on the side: two systems play on Green Bay after a 20-point loss, one on Tampa Bay as a winless team. Splits: TB has 53% of tickets and 49% of the money, no gap; 67% of tickets are on the over even after the total fell 6.5 points. The lean is the under 39.5, with GB -3 only while it stays at 3. The projected 37 is 2.5 under the total. Card: Single GB-TB Under 39.5 ($10), and a Jalon Daniels interception is in the 7a Morning prop stack. GB -3.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

Tennessee Titans @ Baltimore Ravens — TEN +11.5 -108 (2.5★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	TEN +11.5 -108	TEN	2.5 ★★★★☆	proj BAL by 10; sharp ML flag (4% tickets / 19% money); Fezzik , Tucker, Middleton, Tuley; 2 systems TEN (2+ experts picked it)

 Our projected score: TEN 16 – BAL 26

 Why: TEN: Steve Fezzik ("best bet"), Ross Tucker (2 units) Kendra Middleton (the Ravens' long flight home and injuries) and Dave Tuley of VSiN (a best bet). BAL: Brandon Anderson (–11.5 and his contest pick), BettingPros, Sharp or Square (first half only, to avoid a second-half backdoor) and Mike Florio (Ravens 30–17). Splits: BAL has 66% of spread tickets and 71% of the money, but the TEN moneyline is a big-money flag, 4% of tickets and 19% of the money. Evan Abrams' primer has two systems on Tennessee (fading no-pedigree favorites, and fading the public after a poor offensive game), and Baltimore's starting center is out for two to three months. The line is unchanged from the Action Network open at –11.5; the total is down from 43.5 to 43. The lean is TEN +11.5, or BAL first half as Sharp or Square plays it; both fit a script where Baltimore leads early and Tennessee covers late. BettingPros (43.5) and Andrew Erickson (42.5) have the over, but with rain and a projected 42 the total is a pass. Card: the TEN moneyline (+492) is the long leg of the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR, and TEN +11.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets). Derrick Henry 2+ TDs is in the 8b 2+ TD 3-leg.

 Kansas City Chiefs @ Las Vegas Raiders — LV +4.5 -108 / LV ML +184 (2.5★) — Sun 13:25 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	LV +4.5 -108 / LV ML +184	LV	2.5 ★★★★☆	proj KC by 3; Fezzik /Tucker best bet, Sharp or Square , Tuley best bet; home dog vs undefeated system (2+ experts picked it)

 Our projected score: KC 25 – LV 22

 Why: LV: Sharp or Square (twice, "divisional home underdog"), Even Money (both hosts, best bet: Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker), Pat Fitzmaurice, Simon Hunter, who already bet it, and Dave Tuley of VSiN (a best bet). KC: BettingPros (twice), Andrew Erickson, Derek Brown and Mike Florio (Chiefs 23–16). Splits: KC has 52% of tickets and 55% of the money on the spread, and the LV moneyline has 11% of tickets and 10% of the money, no gap. Evan Abrams' primer backs the Raiders: its home-dog-against-an-undefeated-team system is 101–66–4, and when two undefeated teams meet in Week 4 or later, the home team is 25–17–1 against the spread. The line moved toward the Raiders, from the Action Network open of KC –5.5 to –4.5. The lean is LV +4.5, with Bowers receiving as the prop. Total opinions lean under: Pat Fitzmaurice, Derek Brown and Steve Makinen of VSiN at 47.5 and Wes Reynolds at 48, against Fezzik (47.5) and BettingPros (46.5) on the over. With the projection at 47, that's a small under lean, not a bet. Card: the LV moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR (LV +4.5 is a SuperContest alternate), and Patrick Mahomes 2+ passing TDs is in the 7b Afternoon prop stack: a Chiefs win by 3 or less cashes both.

 Atlanta Falcons @ New Orleans Saints — ATL ML +112 / +2.5 -114 (2.5★) · ATL +8.5 (6-pt Wong) (2.5★) — Mon 17:15 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	ATL ML +112 / +2.5 -114	ATL	2.5 ★★★★☆	proj NO by 2; sharp ML flag (26% / 45% money); Makinen, Gibbs, Sharp or Square , Anderson ATL; great-condition div road dog system; Saints rule out Elliss + Granderson (2+ experts picked it)
Side	ATL +8.5 (6-pt Wong)	ATL	2.5 ★★★★☆	Tuley best bet + Reynolds teaser of the week (2+ experts picked it)

 Our projected score: ATL 23 – NO 25

 Why: NO: BettingPros (twice; a Monday-night home spot), Pablo Planovsky of Action Network and Mike Florio (Saints 23–17). ATL: Sharp or Square (+3, a bottom-five Saints defense), Joe Gibbs (divisional home favorites are 12-18-1 straight up under this referee crew) Brandon Anderson (Falcons +2.5 in his four-team parlay), Steve Makinen of VSiN (+2.5; New Orleans is 4–14–1 against the spread in its last 19 Monday-night games), and Falcons +8.5 as a teaser leg from Dave Tuley (a best bet) and Wes Reynolds. Evan Abrams' primer adds the great-condition divisional road dog system on Atlanta, and the Saints have ruled out linebacker Kaden Elliss and pass rusher Carl Granderson. Splits: NO has 49% of tickets and 51% of the money on the spread, but the ATL moneyline is a big-money flag, 26% of tickets and 45% of the money. The line is unchanged at NO –2.5 since the Action Network open; the total is up from 47.5 to 48. The lean is ATL +2.5, or the +112 moneyline. BettingPros (46.5) and Pablo Planovsky (47.5) have the over; the projection sits on 48, so pass the total. Bookmaker props for this game weren't captured; this block gets a Monday rewrite after the 15:45 PT inactives. Card: the ATL moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR and ATL +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL; both settle Monday night. The Monday-night island ladder is built after the Sunday board.

 Jacksonville Jaguars @ Cincinnati Bengals — JAX ML +129 / +2.5 +102 (2.0★) · JAX +8.5 (6-pt Wong) (2.0★) — Sun 10:00 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	JAX ML +129 / +2.5 +102	JAX	2.0 ★★☆☆☆	sharp ML flag (38% tickets / 58% money); 6-4 experts JAX incl. 3 teasers to +8.5; proj CIN by 2 (2+ experts picked it; more experts on the other side (4-3))
Side	JAX +8.5 (6-pt Wong)	JAX	2.0 ★★☆☆☆	Fezzik /Tucker + Tuley best bet teaser; through 3 and 7 (2+ experts picked it; more experts on the other side (4-3))

 Our projected score: JAX 25 – CIN 27

 Why: Experts split 6–4. JAX: Action Network, Brandon Kravitz (The Favorites), Doug Kezirian, and three teasers through +8.5 (Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker of Even Money, and Dave Tuley's VSiN best bet). CIN: Sharp or Square ("prime bounce-back spot for Burrow"), Jason Radowitz of BettingPros, Steve Makinen of VSiN (a best bet) and Mike Florio (Bengals 28–27). The money is the story: the JAX moneyline has 38% of tickets but 58% of the money, a 20-point sharp gap, and JAX has 63% of spread tickets and 62% of the money. One counterweight from Evan Abrams' primer: teams covering by 10-plus points a game over their first three (the Jaguars this week) are 47–72–3 against the spread in their next game over 15 seasons. The line has held at CIN –2.5 since the Action Network open; the total went up from 50.5 to 52. The lean is JAX +2.5, or the +129 moneyline, and JAX +8.5 as a Wong teaser leg through 3 and 7. The over is the consensus (Andrew Erickson at 51, BettingPros at 50.5), but it has moved 1.5 points and the projection sits on the number, so play Parker Washington's receiving instead of the total. Card: the JAX moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR and the 2-leg ARI ML + JAX ML ticket, and JAX +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL.

Los Angeles Chargers @ Seattle Seahawks — SEA ML -319 (2.0★) —
Sun 13:25 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	SEA ML -319	SEA	2.0 ★★☆☆☆	proj SEA by 8; SEA backs thin (Charbonnet, Price OUT); ML <= -290 chalk flag (2+ experts picked it; open injury/lineup question — check before placing)

 Our projected score: LAC 16 – SEA 24

 Why: SEA: Action Network (Doug Kezirian, "a fluke loss" last week), BettingPros, Sharp or Square, Andrew Erickson (-7) and Mike Florio (Seahawks 27-13). LAC: Steve Fezzik (+7.5) and Brandon Anderson (+7.5; winless teams in Week 4 are 7-0 ATS against over-.500 teams since 2021), plus Steve Makinen and Dave Tuley of VSiN at +7, both best bets. Evan Abrams' primer splits the same way: the winless-team system plays on the Chargers, but Sam Darnold is 12-0 straight up in non-conference games over the last three seasons. Splits: SEA has 52% of spread tickets and 60% of the money, but the LAC moneyline is a big-money flag, 6% of tickets and 22% of the money. The line went from the Action Network open of SEA -6.5 to -7, and the total from 44 to 42.5. At -7 the spread sits on the key number, so the lean is the SEA moneyline as a parlay leg and the under (BettingPros at 43.5, Andrew Erickson at 42.5, and the primer's wind-under system). The projection has Seattle covering by only a point. Card: the SEA moneyline (-319, flagged chalk) sits in the Slot 3 Morning parlay and the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay, and Sam Darnold 2+ passing TDs is in the 7b Afternoon prop stack. The under is left off.

Detroit Lions @ Carolina Panthers — DET ML -191 (2.0★) — Sun 17:20 PT

TYPE	PICK	LEAN	CONFIDENCE	WHY
Side	DET ML -191	DET	2.0 ★★★★☆	SNF favorite cap (template); proj DET by 4; experts 6-3 CAR (counter) (2+ experts picked it; more experts on the other side (5-3))

 Our projected score: DET 28 – CAR 24

 Why: DET: BettingPros (-3), Pablo Planovsky of Action Network and Mike Florio (Lions 31-21). CAR: Sharp or Square (+3.5 and +3), Even Money (best bet from both hosts, Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker, at +3.5), and Andrew Erickson, Steve Makinen of VSiN and Jason Radowitz of BettingPros, all at +3.5; Dave Tuley passes. Over: Action Network (Detroit team total), Andrew Erickson and Pablo Planovsky (51.5), and BettingPros (50.5 and 49.5, both now worse). Evan Abrams' primer has the Panthers on a 12-game run of covers after a straight-up loss, but two under systems fire (rising early-season totals, and a first-half under). Splits: DET has 64% of spread tickets and 71% of the money; the CAR moneyline has 12% of tickets and 19% of the money, no flag. The line went from the Action Network open of DET -3 to -3.5, and the total from 49.5 to 51. The side is close to a pass: the projection clears by half a point, against an expert count now 6-3 on Carolina. The lean is the receiver props: Williams and Waller receiving. Bookmaker's whole player-prop menu for this game was unpriced at the 10/03 capture, so check those prices before kickoff. Card: the DET moneyline is the Sunday-night cap on the Slot 3 Morning parlay and the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay. It's a placeholder for a live hedge, not a strong read (6-3 experts on Carolina). Jahmyr Gibbs 2+ TDs is in the 8b 2+ TD 3-leg. The island ladder is built Sunday (no Bookmaker props priced at capture).

 Parlays & round robins — 11 tickets

Each ticket opens to show what it is, why it's on the card, and every leg.

💡 "(est.)" price: each leg's odds multiplied together, the standard way to estimate what a parlay pays. The book's actual payout can differ a little, and same-game parlays (several legs from one game) pay noticeably less because the legs are related. Check the payout on your slip.

🛡️ How the night-game hedge works (read this first)

- Why the last leg is a night game. These parlays end with the moneyline favorite in the Sunday-night (or Monday-night) game. That leg is a placeholder: it keeps the ticket alive until night so that, if the morning and afternoon legs all win, you still have a decision to make.
- Locking in a profit. Once only the night leg is left, bet the underdog in that same game. Size the bet so you come out ahead whichever team wins: if the favorite wins, the parlay pays; if the underdog wins, the hedge pays. Each ticket below shows the stake and the profit it locks at today's prices.
- Finding a middle. Instead of the underdog moneyline, you can hedge with the underdog plus the points. If the favorite wins but by less than the spread, both bets win. Middles are uncommon, but they are the best outcome on these tickets. If the underdog wins outright, the hedge still covers you.
- What it costs. The hedge is a bigger second bet, often ten times the parlay stake, and prices will have moved by the night game, so recalculate first. Hedging part of the way is fine if you want to keep some upside.
- The formula. Hedge stake = what the parlay pays back (stake included) ÷ the hedge bet's decimal odds. Profit locked = parlay payback – parlay stake – hedge stake.

📋 Underdog Moneyline Round Robin (2-team combos) — BKR — $19.95 — 15 combos × $1.33

💬 What it is and why: Six underdogs we'd back on their own (JAX, DEN, ATL, LV, NYJ, TEN), paired in 15 two-team parlays at $1.33 each. Any two winners return about $12; three return about $35, so roughly a third of the dogs need to win to break even.

Payout: returns (avg): 2 hit $12, 3 hit $35, 4 hit $70, 5 hit $116, 6 hit $175

📅 Morning Parlay — BKR — $20 — +413 (est.)

💬 What it is and why: Three morning-to-afternoon favorites (ARI, LAR, SEA) capped by the Detroit moneyline on Sunday night, so the ticket is still alive for a live hedge. Short price (+413) because all four legs are favorites; every leg must win.

How the stars work

- Stars show how much evidence lines up behind a bet, compared with our other bets this week. More stars = a stronger case. They are not a win percentage.
- Where a bet starts: ★★½ when our own matchup numbers and at least two named experts back it · ★★★ when our matchup numbers back it · ★★½ when at least two named experts picked it · ★★ when the support is only partial.
- Up half a star when the experts are lopsided in its favor (at least four of them, two-to-one or better), or when the big-money bettors are on the same side.
- Down half a star when more experts picked the other side, when the big money is on the other side, or when an injury or lineup question is still open.
- We do not use a computer model's win percentage here: ours failed its accuracy test, so it is left out.

3. Teaser Bets: 6-Point Wong Teasers

Section 3: Teaser Bets: 6-Point Wong Teasers

What a teaser is: you move the point spread 6 points in your favor on every leg, in exchange for a smaller payout, and every leg must win. The "Wong" version only uses lines where those 6 points cross both 3 and 7, the two most common NFL winning margins: favorites of -7.5 to -8.5 (teased down to -1.5 / -2.5) and underdogs of +1.5 to +2.5 (teased up to +7.5 / +8.5). Keep teasers to 2 legs.

GAME	LEG	CURRENT	TEASED	EXPERTS ON THAT SIDE
 JAX @  CIN	JAX	+2.5 (+102)	+8.5	3
 ARI @  NYG	NYG	+2.5 (-106)	+8.5	4
 DEN @  SF	DEN	+2.5 (-104)	+8.5	9
 ATL @  NO	ATL	+2.5 (-114)	+8.5	3

4. The Underdog Upset Ticket: The Dogs and Why

🐶 Section 4: The Underdog Upset Ticket: The Dogs and Why

How it works: 6 underdogs to win outright, combined into every two-team parlay — 15 combos × $1.33, $19.95 total. Payout by number of winners: returns (avg): 2 hit $12, 3 hit $35, 4 hit $70, 5 hit $116, 6 hit $175. Two winners does not turn a profit on this build; it needs three or more. Each dog is on the ticket because we think its chance of winning is better than its price implies — not because we expect all of them to win.

DOG	GAME	PRICE	BOOK'S WIN CHANCE (NO-VIG)	OUR PROJECTION	EXPERTS FOR – AGAINST	BIG MONEY	MOI MOI

🐶🐶 Jacksonville Jaguars +129 — JAX@CIN · tier 2 · our projection JAX 25 – CIN 27

Why it's on the ticket: Experts split 6–4. JAX: Action Network, Brandon Kravitz (The Favorites), Doug Kezirian, and three teasers through +8.5 (Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker of Even Money, and Dave Tuley's VSiN best bet). CIN: Sharp or Square ("prime bounce-back spot for Burrow"), Jason Radowitz of BettingPros, Steve Makinen of VSiN (a best bet) and Mike Florio (Bengals 28-27). The money is the story: the JAX moneyline has 38% of tickets but 58% of the money, a 20-point sharp gap, and JAX has 63% of spread tickets and 62% of the money. One counterweight from Evan Abrams' primer: teams covering by 10-plus points a game over their first three (the Jaguars this week) are 47-72-3 against the spread in their next game over 15 seasons. The line has held at CIN -2.5 since the Action Network open; the total went up from 50.5 to 52. The lean is JAX +2.5, or the +129 moneyline, and JAX +8.5 as a Wong teaser leg through 3 and 7. The over is the consensus (Andrew Erickson at 51, BettingPros at 50.5), but it has moved 1.5 points and the projection sits on the number, so play Parker Washington's receiving instead of the total. Card: the JAX moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR and the 2-leg ARI ML + JAX ML ticket, and JAX +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL.

What breaks it: Jacksonville's +4 turnover margin regresses and Burrow gets a clean pocket all day; Chase hits two explosives and Cincinnati wins by a touchdown. If the moneyline money keeps coming and the line flips to JAX, the price is gone.

Card evidence: Big-money flag (38% tickets / 58% money); 6-4 named experts JAX; projection CIN by 2 · full game write-up

Denver Broncos +126 — DEN@SF · tier 2 · our projection DEN 23 – SF 24

Why it's on the ticket: This is the most one-sided expert game on the slate. DEN: Action Network, Sharp or Square, Steve Fezzik, BettingPros, Chad Millman (his "trade of the week," calling the reverse line move sharp), John Jastremski, Evan Abrams, Matt Moore, Andrew Erickson (+3) and Dave Tuley of VSiN (+8.5 in teasers, a best bet). SF: Mike Florio (49ers 24-20) and Steve Makinen of VSiN (-3, a best bet). Splits: SF has 60% of spread tickets and 64% of the money and 84% of moneyline tickets, yet the line came down from the Action Network open of SF -3 to -2.5. Every DEN +3 position is now +2.5, past the key number. The lean is DEN +2.5 or the +126 moneyline, plus McCaffrey receiving. On the total, 60% of the money is on the under against 52% of tickets, and the total is up from 45.5 to 48; small under lean. Card: the heaviest exposure on the card (about $85). The DEN moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR, the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay and the Slot 5 Hybrid; DEN +2.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets); DEN +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL. A 49ers win by 3 or more hurts six tickets at once.

What breaks it: The 49ers' offense, at 63% on third down, doesn't need Bosa to win a shootout: Kittle and McCaffrey beat the blitz and San Francisco wins by ten. Denver scores only 20 a game and can't keep pace if Nix is pressured. Mike Evans is a game-time decision with a rib injury (ESPN); recheck at the 11:55 PT inactive window.

Card evidence: 11-2 named experts DEN; SF -3 → -2.5 against 60%+ SF money; Bosa and M. Williams out; projection SF by 1 · full game write-up

Atlanta Falcons +112 — ATL@NO · tier 2 · our projection ATL 23 – NO 25

Why it's on the ticket: NO: BettingPros (twice; a Monday-night home spot), Pablo Planovsky of Action Network and Mike Florio (Saints 23-17). ATL: Sharp or Square (+3, a bottom-five Saints defense), Joe Gibbs (divisional home favorites are 12-18-1 straight up under this referee crew) Brandon Anderson (Falcons +2.5 in his four-team parlay), Steve Makinen of VSiN (+2.5; New Orleans is 4-14-1 against the spread in its last 19 Monday-night games), and Falcons +8.5 as a teaser leg from Dave Tuley (a best bet) and Wes Reynolds. Evan Abrams' primer adds the great-condition divisional road dog system on Atlanta, and the Saints have ruled out linebacker Kaden Elliss and pass rusher Carl Granderson. Splits: NO has 49% of tickets and 51% of the money on the spread, but the ATL moneyline is a big-money flag, 26% of tickets and 45% of the money. The line is unchanged at NO -2.5 since the Action Network open; the total is up from 47.5 to 48. The lean is ATL +2.5, or the +112 moneyline. BettingPros (46.5) and Pablo Planovsky (47.5) have the over; the projection sits on 48, so pass the total. Bookmaker props for this game weren't captured; this block gets a Monday rewrite after the 15:45 PT inactives. Card: the ATL moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR and ATL +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL; both settle Monday night. The Monday-night island ladder is built after the Sunday board.

What breaks it: Atlanta's turnover problem continues: two Penix giveaways and New Orleans wins by ten. If Fant plays, Olave gets single coverage more often and the Saints' HIGH matchup becomes a big passing day.

Card evidence: Big-money flag (26% / 45% money); Makinen, Gibbs, Sharp or Square, Anderson ATL; Saints out Elliss + Granderson; projection NO by 2 · full game write-up

Las Vegas Raiders +184 — KC@LV · tier 2 · our projection KC 25 – LV 22

Why it's on the ticket: LV: Sharp or Square (twice, "divisional home underdog"), Even Money (both hosts, best bet: Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker), Pat Fitzmaurice, Simon Hunter, who already bet it, and Dave Tuley of VSiN (a best bet). KC: BettingPros (twice), Andrew Erickson, Derek Brown and Mike Florio (Chiefs 23-16). Splits: KC has 52% of tickets and 55% of the money on the spread, and the LV moneyline has 11% of tickets and 10% of the money, no gap. Evan Abrams' primer backs the Raiders: its home-dog-against-an-undefeated-team system is 101-66-4, and when two undefeated teams meet in Week 4 or later, the home team is 25-17-1 against the spread. The line moved toward the Raiders, from the Action Network open of KC -5.5 to -4.5. The lean is LV +4.5, with Bowers receiving as the prop. Total opinions lean under: Pat Fitzmaurice, Derek Brown and Steve Makinen of VSiN at 47.5 and Wes Reynolds at 48, against Fezzik (47.5) and BettingPros (46.5) on the over. With the projection at 47, that's a small under lean, not a bet. Card: the LV moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR (LV +4.5 is a SuperContest alternate), and Patrick Mahomes 2+ passing TDs is in the 7b Afternoon prop stack: a Chiefs win by 3 or less cashes both.

What breaks it: Mahomes and Walker score early, Cousins has to chase, and the +5 turnover luck reverses: a Kansas City win by ten. If Walker gets the red-zone work BettingPros expects, the Chiefs cover by scoring touchdowns instead of field goals.

Card evidence: Fezzik/Tucker + Tuley best bets LV +4.5; home dog vs undefeated system (101-66-4); projection KC by 3 · full game write-up

New York Jets +167 — NYJ@CHI · tier 1+2 · our projection NYJ 20 – CHI 23

Why it's on the ticket: The named experts favor New York on price: Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money, both at +3.5), Action Network's contest pick, BettingPros at +3, Wes Reynolds of VSiN (+3.5) and Kendra Middleton ("an even better spot if Bagent starts"). The CHI side is Mike Florio (Bears 27-17), Andrew Erickson's BettingPros primer (-3.5) and a BettingPros pick at -3.5 that was written around Case Keenum starting. Dave Tuley of VSiN passes. ESPN and Pro Football Talk both report that Bagent is expected to start, the condition Kendra Middleton named. Splits lean Chicago, 57% of tickets and 62% of money, no sharp gap; the NYJ moneyline has 13% of tickets and 18% of money. The line went from the Action Network open of CHI -3 to -3.5. The lean is NYJ +3.5 for the hook; the projection lands on the 43 total, and the only total signal is a wind-under system in Evan Abrams' primer, so no total. Card: Single NYJ +3.5 ($10) for the hook, and the NYJ moneyline is one of the six dogs in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR. NYJ +3.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

What breaks it: Keenum starts instead of Bagent, which is the case the BettingPros CHI pick rests on, and the Bears pass better than this script assumes. Chicago's 59-point opener shows the ceiling. A Jets turnover in their own end flips a three-point game into a seven-point one. If the number drops back to -3, the hook is gone and so is the lean.

Card evidence: NYJ passing offense vs CHI defense HIGH; Bagent starts; Fezzik, Tucker, Middleton, Action Network, Reynolds NYJ; projection CHI by 3 · full game write-up

 Tennessee Titans +492 — TEN@BAL · tier 2 · our projection TEN 16 – BAL 26

Why it's on the ticket: TEN: Steve Fezzik ("best bet"), Ross Tucker (2 units) Kendra Middleton (the Ravens' long flight home and injuries) and Dave Tuley of VSiN (a best bet). BAL: Brandon Anderson (-11.5 and his contest pick), BettingPros, Sharp or Square (first half only, to avoid a second-half backdoor) and Mike Florio (Ravens 30-17). Splits: BAL has 66% of spread tickets and 71% of the money, but the TEN moneyline is a big-money flag, 4% of tickets and 19% of the money. Evan Abrams' primer has two systems on Tennessee (fading no-pedigree favorites, and fading the public after a poor offensive game), and Baltimore's starting center is out for two to three months. The line is unchanged from the Action Network open at -11.5; the total is down from 43.5 to 43. The lean is TEN +11.5, or BAL first half as Sharp or Square plays it; both fit a script where Baltimore leads early and Tennessee covers late. BettingPros (43.5) and Andrew Erickson (42.5) have the over, but with rain and a projected 42 the total is a pass. Card: the TEN moneyline (+492) is the long leg of the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR, and TEN +11.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets). Derrick Henry 2+ TDs is in the 8b 2+ TD 3-leg.

What breaks it: The patched Baltimore line holds, Henry gets 30 carries and the Ravens win by 17. Ward turns it over twice (Sharp or Square calls him regressing). Flowers plays a full game and stretches the field Tennessee is trying to shrink.

Card evidence: Big-money flag (4% tickets / 19% money); Tuley/Fezzik/Tucker TEN +11.5; the long leg of the RR · full game write-up

5. Survivor Pool Picks: Safest Teams This Week

Section 5: Survivor Pool Picks: Safest Teams This Week

Survivor pools: pick one team to win each week; you cannot use a team twice, and one loss usually ends your run. So the best pick balances three things: how likely the team is to win, how many others in your pool are on the same team (if a popular pick loses, much of the field goes with it), and whether you would rather save the team for a better spot later.

- LMS 2022: Fat Lazy American — dead (eliminated week 2 on  LAC); 21 of 100 entries still alive

- Ken's Survival League: Fat Lazy American — dead (eliminated week 2 on 🇷🇺 TB); 28 of 100 entries still alive

1	 BAL	vs  TEN (game)	84%	37.0%	—	ESPN: depends on ownership (84% / 91%; future value 6th); best if well under 37% in your pool. VSIN/PoolGenius 84%, but 70%+ in five more weeks. Action Network pairs it with MIN as the chalk. Very popular (37% of entries): a loss here knocks out a big part of the field, so fading it can pay off in large pools.	W5 @ATL · W6 @CLE · W7 vs CIN

Top matchup-data reads

- What these are: bets where our own matchup data — not just opinions — points the same way. Either a passing offense faces a secondary our model grades as a HIGH or MEDIUM mismatch, or a player's role is verified from the first two weeks (tackles, carries, targets). "Tier 1+2" means named experts independently agree.
- How to use them: these are the strongest reads on the slate. Each links to its full game breakdown, with the projected score and what could go wrong.

6. Game-by-Game Breakdowns: Odds, Money, Projections & the Case

Section 6: Game-by-Game Breakdowns: Odds, Money, Projections & the Case

Each game opens with a written game script, our projected final score and the reasoning behind the card lean, with links to the experts cited and the actionable props for that game. Below that: the betting lines, key context, and every pick grouped by sides, totals and player props.

What the betting lines are predicting. Every point spread and total is really a forecast. Put the two together and you get the final score the sportsbook expects; the moneylines give each team's chance of winning. Next to that is our own projected score (from the game write-ups in Section 6) and where the bets and the money are landing, on both sides of every market.

What each column means (plain English)

- Favorite & spread: the team expected to win and by how many points. "BUF -7" means Buffalo has to win by 8 or more for a Buffalo spread bet to cash.
- Total points: the combined score the sportsbook set as its over/under line.
- Score the lines imply: the final score the spread and total point to together. Example: total 50.5 and BUF -7 → Buffalo about 28.8, Chargers about 21.8.
- Our projection: Platinum Rose's own projected final: the line, adjusted for injuries, matchups, expert opinion and money moves. Not a computer-model output.
- Win chance: each moneyline turned into a win probability, with the sportsbook's built-in cut removed so the two sides add up to 100%.
- Spread / Total (bets / money): for each side, the share of bets placed and the share of dollars wagered. Example: "O 25/51 · U 75/49" means only 25% of bets are on the Over but they carry 51% of the money.
-  Big-money signal: a side where the money share beats the bet share by 15+ points — fewer, bigger bets, usually experienced ("sharp") bettors. We record the exact line when the signal first appears, so later builds show whether the line has moved toward or away from that side since.

Game script

In London at 06:30 PT, Washington starts Marcus Mariota with Jayden Daniels out, Terry McLaurin doubtful and Rachaad White out. Bookmaker had pulled the Mariota, McLaurin and Jacory Croskey-Merritt prop menus at its 10/03 capture, which says the book itself isn't sure what this offense looks like. Indianapolis loses Keenan Allen (out on the 10/03 ESPN feed), so the targets concentrate on Josh Downs (72+ receiving yards at -106) and Tyler Warren (54+ at -105) on a MEDIUM secondary grade against a defense allowing 6.4 yards per play. Jonathan Taylor (91+ rushing at -102) runs into the Washington run defense the WAS backers lean on, so the Colts win through the air. Indianapolis by six: a cover of -4.5 by a point and a half, 46 total points.

Why the card leans this way

Experts split 7-4 toward Washington: Action Network ("Mariota is a top-tier backup"), BettingPros, Ross Tucker and Doug Kezirian at +3.5, PFF and Travis Pulver of BettingPros on the moneyline, and Mike Florio (Commanders 24-20) on WAS; Brandon Anderson, Andrew Erickson and Jason Logan at -3.5 and Ian Undery of Action Network on the moneyline for IND. Dave Tuley of VSiN passes. The line has moved from the Action Network open of IND -3.5 to -4.5. Splits: WAS has 68% of spread tickets but only 58% of the money; the IND moneyline has 70% of tickets and 83% of the money, short of a 15-point sharp gap. The projection (IND by 6) disagrees with the expert majority, but only by a point and a half against the number, so the lean is to pass the side and play the receiver: Brandon Anderson and Andrew Erickson both have Downs over 62.5 receiving, noting Washington has allowed the most wide-receiver fantasy points. The projected 46 sits a point under the 47 total; The over has four backers (BettingPros and Zachary Cohen of VSiN at 46.5, Ian Undery at 49.5, and a betting-trends account on X), mostly on the same 15-1 trend when Washington is a 3.5- to 9.5-point underdog. With the projection a point under and a first-half under system in Evan Abrams' primer, no total.

Card: no ticket touches this game. The projection (IND by 6) and the 7-4 expert lean to Washington point opposite ways, so the card passes the side and the receiving props.

What breaks it

Mariota runs well and Croskey-Merritt controls the clock, holding the Colts to field goals. McLaurin plays through the doubtful tag. Indianapolis is -5 in turnover margin through three games, so two giveaways turn a six-point Colts win into a Washington cover. Recheck inactives at about 05:00 PT.

What the experts are saying

Washington side: seven sources.

Ross Tucker (Even Money): WAS +3.5 for 1 unit, Tue 9/29. He "believes the win over Seattle changes the dynamic for Washington." The current +4.5 is a point better than his number.

Doug Kezirian: WAS +3.5: "I'll gladly take the three and a half with Washington because I think they can win outright."

Action Network: WAS +3.5: "Mariota is a top-tier backup, Washington's run defense is elite, and 3.5 provides good line value against an overvalued Colts team."

BettingPros: WAS +3.5, twice. The neutral-site game lets "Washington's run defense contain Jonathan Taylor," and "Marcus Mariota looks competent driving the offense; line should be closer to a pick 'em."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Washington to win outright, 24-20.

PFF: the Washington moneyline, "an intriguing spot for the Commanders on the moneyline and in the alternate markets."

Travis Pulver (BettingPros): Commanders moneyline at +160.

Indianapolis side: four sources.

Andrew Erickson: IND -3.5, one of his 10 best bets. Washington's defense "is extremely poor," and the Colts' coach is 2-0 straight up and against the spread in international games, while Washington's staff and Mariota have struggled abroad.

Brandon Anderson: IND -3.5, also his contest pick: "Colts are the better team, best run blocking line, and Washington defense is weak."

Jason Logan: IND -3.5, Mon 9/28: "Commanders in a nasty letdown spot sandwich traveling to UK for their 3rd away game in first 4 weeks."

Ian Undery (Action Network): the Colts on the moneyline, with the over at 49.5.

No play. Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes on this game.

Total. BettingPros has over 46.5 ("both defenses have major flaws"), as do Zachary Cohen of VSiN and a betting-trends account on X; both note the over is 15–1 since 2024 when Washington is a 3.5- to 9.5-point underdog.

Props. Josh Downs over 62.5 receiving from Brandon Anderson and Andrew Erickson (Washington has "allowed the most fantasy points to WRs"). Rich Hribar's best-bets pick is Tyler Warren over 46.5: Warren plays "87% of the Colts' dropbacks" with a 23% target share, against a secondary 29th in completion rate allowed. PropStarz takes Jonathan Taylor under 90.5 rushing because of the Washington run defense. The two overs on Keenan Allen (Dave at 36.5 yards, Sal Bets at 3.5 catches) came before Allen was ruled out and no longer apply. Grant Neiffer has Daniel Jones to score at +400 and Terry McLaurin at +250 (McLaurin is doubtful).

-  The Colts are 7-1 ATS in October over the last three seasons (+$551), covering by 7.4 PPG. (ATS)
-  The Commanders are 9-2 to the Over with a backup QB starting since the start of last season (+$618), going over the total by 6.4 PPG. (Over)
-  Daniel Jones is 15-6 to the Under in non-conference games in his career (since 2019) (+$764). That is the 2nd-best mark of 43 QBs with at least 10 such games since 2019. Daniel Jones is 2-12 ATS against NFC opponents over the last four seasons (-$1,021), failing to cover by 7.9 PPG. That is the worst mark of 34 QBs with at least 10 such games since 2019. (Under)
-  Shane Steichen is 4-11 ATS against NFC opponents in his career (since 2023) (-$740), failing to cover by 4.4 PPG. That is the 2nd-worst mark of 35 head coaches with at least 10 such games since 2023. (ATS)
-  Since 2013, we've seen 13 International Series games where at least one team started a backup QB -- the over is 10-3 in those games, going over the total by 3.6 PPG.
-  Dan Quinn and Marcus Mariota as a QB-coach duo are 5-0 to the Over at home (since 2025), going over the total by 14.9 PPG.
-  Marcus Mariota is 11-25-1 ATS in the full game spread and the first half spread the game after a SU win for his team, including 4-15 SU/ATS when that game is away from home.

-  Favorites have excelled in international games. They are 42-15-1 SU and 35-23 ATS, including 11-5 SU when both teams are under .500 SU entering the game.
-  Daniel Jones has faced a Dan Quinn-led team twice in his career as a starter, both with the Giants vs. Commanders. New York went 0-2 SU/ATS, both during the 2024 season.

Game script

Buffalo scores 33.7 points a game at 6.5 yards per play and gets a HIGH secondary grade against a New England defense playing without Christian Gonzalez (out). Josh Allen (243+ passing at -101, and -136 to score, tied with James Cook III for the shortest touchdown price) and Cook (86+ rushing at +101) build the lead, with Dalton Kincaid (52+) working the middle. New England averages 12 points with a -5 turnover margin; Drake Maye leans on Hunter Henry and Romeo Doubs (40+) on the MEDIUM side. Allen's knee caps the margin: EC took his passing under 242.5 and Steve Fezzik calls him banged up. Buffalo by six, inside the 7.

Why the card leans this way

Read in full, the expert columns lean New England 6–4. NE: Steve Fezzik (Even Money) at +7, Andrew Erickson at +7.5 (New England has covered 5 of the last 6 in the series), and four VSIN best bets: Steve Makinen and Dave Tuley at +6.5, Matt Youmans and Wes Reynolds at +7; Ross Tucker leans NE. BUF: Action Network, BettingPros, Sharp or Square and Mike Florio (Bills 34–21), most at -6.5. Evan Abrams' primer has eight systems firing in this game, five on the New England spread (great-condition divisional road dogs, underdogs off a blowout loss and fading the public after a poor offensive game among them) and two on the under; as a 3-point-plus underdog, Mike Vrabel is 30–18–2 against the spread. Splits are public on Buffalo, 60% of tickets and 65% of money, no sharp gap. The Action Network open was -6.5; the line now sits on the key number 7. On that evidence the projection moves a point toward New England each way (Buffalo by six, down from eight), so the lean flips from Buffalo-without-the-7 to NE +7, with Cook to score as the Buffalo-side prop. The projected 48 is under the 50 total and both under systems agree, a small under lean; BettingPros' over 48.5 is now a point and a half worse. Card: NE +7 is a leg of the Slot 5 Hybrid, and it's the default option for the unused Bills credits (Andy decides after the report). NE +6.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

What breaks it

Allen's knee limits his running and Buffalo wins by a field goal. Ray Davis is questionable, which thins the backfield behind Cook. Maye gets enough protection to find Henry late for a backdoor cover. Wind gusts reach 20 mph, not enough to change the script.

What the experts are saying

Buffalo side: four sources.

Action Network: BUF -6.5: "Drake Maye looks completely lost and the Patriots' run game ranks dead last in success rate (28%)."

Sharp or Square: BUF -6.5, a Josh Allen "bounce-back game against a severely broken Patriots team with offensive line injuries."

BettingPros: BUF -6.5 and -7: Buffalo "should win by double digits" and "routinely blow[s] out opponents at home."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Bills 34-21.

All three -6.5 picks now face -7, the key number.

New England side: six sources.

Steve Fezzik (Even Money): NE +7 for 1 unit: "Josh Allen is banged up and the line is slightly inflated." His co-host Ross Tucker only leans NE "due to how bad New England looked against Jacksonville."

Andrew Erickson: NE +7.5 at -128, one of his best bets. New England "has covered 5 of the last 6 against the Bills," and Maye is 2-0 against the spread in Buffalo. The current +7 is half a point worse than his number.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): NE +6.5, one of his Week 4 best bets: "I'll go New England +6.5 at Buffalo."

Dave Tuley (VSiN): NE +6.5 or better, a best bet.

Matt Youmans (VSiN): NE +7, a best bet.

Wes Reynolds (VSiN): NE +7: "Mike Vrabel is 30-18-2 ATS for his career as an underdog."

Total. BettingPros has over 48.5: "Turnover-prone quarterbacks and short field setups favor scoring." Evan Abrams' primer has two under systems here (medium-to-high wind games, and divisional unders with a high total).

Props. EC takes Allen under 242.5 passing because of the knee; @xEP_Network goes the other way with Allen over 240.5 (200+ in 80% of his last five). Gilles Gallant has Maye to score at +500 (he leads New England in red-zone rushing share) and Allen two touchdowns at +600. Sal Bets has Maye over 30.5 attempts; he averages 37 in similar spots. Trent Conner (BettingPros) has James Cook III as the first touchdown scorer at +500.

Game script

Chicago starts Tyson Bagent (Bookmaker's 201+ passing line is his) with Caleb Williams out. The Bears' offense (29.7 points and 184 rushing yards a game) runs through D'Andre Swift (64+ rushing, -136 to score) and Colston Loveland (35+). New York is without Breece Hall and Mason Taylor (both out), with Kenyon Sadiq questionable, so Braelon Allen (57+ rushing, +118 to score) carries and Geno Smith throws to Garrett Wilson (78+ at -105) on a HIGH-graded matchup against a Chicago secondary missing a cornerback and a safety (both out). The Jets' defense allows 258 yards a game, which keeps it close. Chicago by three, so New York covers +3.5 on the hook; 43 points, on the total.

Why the card leans this way

The named experts favor New York on price: Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money, both at +3.5), Action Network's contest pick, BettingPros at +3, Wes Reynolds of VSIN (+3.5) and Kendra Middleton ("an even better spot if Bagent starts"). The CHI side is Mike Florio (Bears 27-17), Andrew Erickson's BettingPros primer (-3.5) and a BettingPros pick at -3.5 that was written around Case Keenum starting. Dave Tuley of VSIN passes. ESPN and Pro Football Talk both report that Bagent is expected to start, the condition Kendra Middleton named. Splits lean Chicago, 57% of tickets and 62% of money, no sharp gap; the NYJ moneyline has 13% of tickets and 18% of money. The line went from the Action Network open of CHI -3 to -3.5. The lean is NYJ +3.5 for the hook; the projection lands on the 43 total, and the only total signal is a wind-under system in Evan Abrams' primer, so no total. Card: Single NYJ +3.5 ($10) for the hook, and the NYJ moneyline is one of the six dogs in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR. NYJ +3.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

What breaks it

Keenum starts instead of Bagent, which is the case the BettingPros CHI pick rests on, and the Bears pass better than this script assumes. Chicago's 59-point opener shows the ceiling. A Jets turnover in their own end flips a three-point game into a seven-point one. If the number drops back to -3, the hook is gone and so is the lean.

What the experts are saying

Jets side: six sources, all at +3 or +3.5.

Steve Fezzik (Even Money): NYJ +3.5. His contest pick, and one of his five best against-the-spread picks of the week on the Even Money prop-bets episode.

Ross Tucker (Even Money): NYJ +3.5, taken Tue 9/29: "taking the Jets getting key hook (+3.5) against Case Keenum on a short week." The hook and Chicago's short week (the Bears played Monday night, 9/28) are the core of it. The Keenum part no longer applies with Bagent priced as the starter.

Kendra Middleton: NYJ +3.5 on her Week 4 preview podcast: "Fading the Bears who are a public darling after a primetime win. If Tyson Bagent starts, it's an even better spot." Her condition has been met: Bagent is the starter.

Action Network: NYJ +3.5, a host's contest pick (Wed 10/1), "against a Bears team with backup QB situation."

BettingPros (Jets pick): NYJ +3, taken Tue 9/29: "Jets are playing competitive football under Aaron Glenn; Bears are on a short week facing quarterback uncertainty." The current +3.5 is half a point better than the number they took.

Wes Reynolds (VSiN): NYJ +3.5, on his "best of the rest" list.

Bears side: three real picks.

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Bears to win, predicted 27-17. That's a straight-up pick, not against the spread, but a 10-point margin covers -3.5 comfortably and the 44 total sits one point over 43.

BettingPros (Bears pick): CHI -3.5, Wed 9/30: "Bears offense is clicking under Ben Johnson and Case Keenum, taking advantage of a second consecutive home game and rest advantage against the Jets." Two problems: it assumes Keenum starts, and the rest edge actually belongs to the Jets, who played Sunday while Chicago played Monday.

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer): CHI -3.5.

No play. Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes on this game.

Touchdown props. Grant Neiffer, on his weekly touchdown podcast, likes Geno Smith to score at +900 ("rushing quarterbacks have historically given this Bears defensive unit issues"); the price has since shortened to +778. He also likes Kalif Raymond at +370 (now +347), but that case rests on targets from Keenum, so it's weaker with Bagent starting. PFF has Garrett Wilson to score: "Chicago has played more man coverage than every team except the Browns."

Game script

A shootout. Joe Burrow (269+ passing) is the least-pressured quarterback in the league, per Rich Hribar, and throws to Ja'Marr Chase (86+ receiving at +101, -118 to score) and Tee Higgins (63+), with Chase Brown the shortest scorer on the board at -193. Jacksonville answers with Trevor Lawrence (262+) and Parker Washington (77+), whom Chris Welsh backs for over 5.5 catches on a 46% air-yard share, and Jakobi Meyers on a MEDIUM grade. The Jaguars allow 12 points a game and are +4 in turnovers; the Bengals allow 21. Cincinnati by two: Jacksonville covers +2.5, and the 52 points land on the total.

Why the card leans this way

Experts split 6–4. JAX: Action Network, Brandon Kravitz (The Favorites), Doug Kezirian, and three teasers through +8.5 (Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker of Even Money, and Dave Tuley's VSiN best bet). CIN: Sharp or Square ("prime bounce-back spot for Burrow"), Jason Radowitz of BettingPros, Steve Makinen of VSiN (a best bet) and Mike Florio (Bengals 28–27). The money is the story: the JAX moneyline has 38% of tickets but 58% of the money, a 20-point sharp gap, and JAX has 63% of spread tickets and 62% of the money. One counterweight from Evan Abrams' primer: teams covering by 10-plus points a game over their first three (the Jaguars this week) are 47–72–3 against the spread in their next game over 15 seasons. The line has held at CIN –2.5 since the Action Network open; the total went up from 50.5 to 52. The lean is JAX +2.5, or the +129 moneyline, and JAX +8.5 as a Wong teaser leg through 3 and 7. The over is the consensus (Andrew Erickson at 51, BettingPros at 50.5), but it has moved 1.5 points and the projection sits on the number, so play Parker Washington's receiving instead of the total. Card: the JAX moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR and the 2-leg ARI ML + JAX ML ticket, and JAX +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL.

What breaks it

Jacksonville's +4 turnover margin regresses and Burrow gets a clean pocket all day; Chase hits two explosives and Cincinnati wins by a touchdown. If the moneyline money keeps coming and the line flips to JAX, the price is gone.

What the experts are saying

Jacksonville side.

Brandon Kravitz (The Favorites): bet JAX +2.5 on the Sunday-night overnight line, "feeling Jacksonville is being undervalued as potentially the top team in the NFL."

Action Network: JAX +2.5: "Line should be a pick'em; Jacksonville dominates when they win and Cincinnati is potentially overrated."

Doug Kezirian: "I think the Jags are the play here."

Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money): JAX teased to +8.5; they expect "a high-scoring shootout where Jacksonville stays competitive."

Dave Tuley (VSiN): Jaguars +8.5 in teasers, a best bet.

Cincinnati side.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): CIN -2.5, one of his best bets.

Sharp or Square: CIN -2.5, a "prime bounce-back spot for Joe Burrow at home under a field goal against a Jaguars team that struggles on the road."

Jason Radowitz (BettingPros): "Give me the Bengals -2.5," from its early best bets.

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Bengals 28-27, a one-point game.

Total. Andrew Erickson's best bet is over 51: the Bengals are 12-5 to the over at home since 2024 and first in deep-ball efficiency, and the Jaguars are 22nd defending deep passes. BettingPros has over 50.5. Both took lower numbers than the current 52. Andrew Erickson also has Chase Brown under 16.5 carries: "This number is just way too high."

Props. Parker Washington: PropStarz over 71.5 yards and Chris Welsh over 5.5 catches (+119), on a 46% air-yard share against Cincinnati's backup slot corners. Rich Hribar's best-bets pick is Ja'Marr Chase over 78.5 ("Chase exploded for 14 receptions and 165 yards" in this matchup last season). Dave likes Jakobi Meyers over 39.5 against man coverage, and Sean Koerner has Meyers to score at +255. @xEP_Network has Burrow over 269.5 passing. Brandon Anderson's long shot is tight end Nate Boerkircher to score at +1200.

-  Teams covering by 10+ PPG on the season (minimum three games) are 47-72-3 ATS in their next game over the last 15 seasons (-$2,771). This week that includes the Jaguars, Raiders, 49ers and Vikings. (ATS)
-  The Bengals are 8-0 to the first-half Over as a favorite since the start of last season (+$800). (1H Over)
-  Trevor Lawrence is 12-4 against the first-half spread against AFC opponents since the start of last season (+$760). That is the best mark of 13 QBs with at least 10 such games in that span. (1H ATS)
-  Joe Burrow is 8-3 ATS against the AFC South in his career (since 2020) (+$433). That is the best mark of 16 QBs with at least 10 such games since 2020. Zac Taylor is 11-3 ATS against the AFC South since 2020 (+$707), covering by 4.6 PPG. That is the best mark of 11 head coaches with at least 10 such games in that span. (ATS)
-  In six career games after facing the Steelers, Joe Burrow and the Bengals are 5-1 to the under in those subsequent matchups.
-  Trevor Lawrence has faced a Zac Taylor-led team three times as a starting QB, the Jaguars have lost all three games by 3, 3 and 4 total points, with Lawrence going 0-3 both SU and ATS in the 2nd half.
-  Not a sure thing: Joe Burrow has started 12 games at home off of a SU loss, he is 5-7 SU and 5-6-1 ATS in those games with just one cover since start of 2023 season.
-  Miami On Deck: Bengals travel to Miami to face the Dolphins next week. Teams with a road game to Miami on deck are just 15-26 ATS last 5 seasons, including 4-14 ATS in the last 18 games in this spot.

Game script

With Jaxson Dart on IR, Jameis Winston (211+ passing) starts for the Giants, who score 15.3 points a game and are also missing pass rusher Brian Burns. Arizona has a HIGH secondary grade here (severity 7.32): Jacoby Brissett (231+; 38 of 52 for 280 last week) throws to Trey McBride (64+, +151 to score) and Marvin Harrison Jr., and Jeremiyah Love (67+ rushing, -136 to score) takes the work with James Conner out. New York's path is Malik Nabers (57+) on a MEDIUM grade and Najee Harris near the goal line (Sean Koerner, +330). Arizona by four, covering -2.5; 44 total.

Why the card leans this way

The line flipped five points, from the Action Network open of NYG -2.5 to ARI -2.5, on the Dart news. ARI: Chad Millman (on Arizona early), Sharp or Square (+1.5 before the flip) and BettingPros on the moneyline ("Winston is unreliable as a market favorite"). NYG: Brandon Anderson (+2.5, "the line shouldn't have flipped this much"), Steve Makinen of VSiN (+2.5, "not sure the right team is favored here"), Matt Moore (+1.5 contest pick), Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker teasing NYG to +7.5, and Mike Florio (Giants 23-17). The two contest picks are at the contest's +1.5. Andrew Erickson ("stay away") and Dave Tuley both pass. Money agrees with the move: ARI has 62% of spread tickets and 69% of the money, and the ARI moneyline is a big-money flag (62% of tickets, 78% of money). The lean is ARI -2.5 or the -143 moneyline. On the total, Action Network has over 44.5 and Zachary Cohen of VSiN has Jameis Winston's passing overs; Evan Abrams' primer notes Winston is 17-6 to the over in October in his career, while a wind-under system points the other way. The projection is half a point under, so pass the total; Winston's passing yards are the better angle. Card: the ARI moneyline anchors the Slot 3 Morning parlay, the Slot 5 Hybrid and the 2-leg ARI ML + JAX ML ticket; ARI -1.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets). The 7a Morning prop stack carries Jacoby Brissett 2+ passing TDs and a Jameis Winston interception.

⚠️ What breaks it

Winston's volatility cuts both ways: two long Nabers plays put the Giants ahead. Brissett has thrown 52 times in a game, and turnovers on that volume would hand New York the short field. There's a 53% chance of second-half showers (NWS), which would slow both passing games.

🎤 What the experts are saying

Arizona side.

Chad Millman: on Arizona early: "Pros love Arizona in this matchup," driving the line from ARI +2.5 to -2.5.

Sharp or Square: ARI +1.5 before the line flipped, citing the Giants losing pass rusher Brian Burns. That's four points better than the current number.

BettingPros: ARI moneyline: "Jameis Winston is unreliable as a market favorite; Cardinals have superior offensive firepower."

Giants side.

Brandon Anderson: NYG +2.5: "Arizona defense is the worst unit on the field. Line should not have flipped this much." He also has NYG +1.5 as his contest pick and an alternate NYG -6.5 at +285 ("home dogs of under 3 points tend to win by a touchdown 60% of the time").

Matt Moore: NYG +1.5, contest pick.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): NYG +2.5: "Not sure the right team is favored here."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Giants 23-17.

Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money): NYG teased to +7.5 in "a very tight, low-scoring matchup."

No play. Andrew Erickson's BettingPros primer says "stay away," and Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes.

Total. Action Network's model likes over 44.5 with "Arizona's crisp offense facing a banged-up Giants secondary."

Props. Sean Koerner has Michael Wilson to score at +220 and Najee Harris at +330. @xEP_Network has Brissett over 232.5 passing. Zachary Cohen (VSiN) has Jameis Winston over 212.5 passing yards and over 1.5 touchdown passes (+150).

-  Jameis Winston is 17-6 to the Over in October in his career (since 2015) (+$945), going over the total by 4.8 PPG. That is the best mark of 52 QBs with at least 10 such games since 2015. (Over)
-  Since 1990, we've only seen 14 teams enter a season with a win total below 5 and end up closing as a road favorite. Those teams are 9-5 SU/ATS, with the under 10-4 in those games.
-  After the win last week against the Titans, John Harbaugh is 20-12 ATS since 2013 with a backup QB, including 11-4 SU in the first half when his team plays at home.
-  Jacoby Brissett has made 34 career road starts -- he has closed as a favorite just twice: 2022 as a Brown in Atlanta and in 2019 as a Colt in Jacksonville. His teams lost both games SU/ATS.
-  The Giants are 15-4 to the Under in the first four games of a season over the last five seasons (+$964), going under the total by 4.3 PPG. That is the best mark of any team in the NFL in that span. (Under)
-  Home underdogs with Shawn Smith officiating are 13-3-1 ATS over the last three seasons (+$896), covering by 6.2 PPG. Fits this week: Giants. (ATS)
-  The Cardinals are 0-5 ATS the week after facing Kyle Shanahan over the last four seasons (-$500), failing to cover by 7.0 PPG. (ATS)
-  The Cardinals are 6-1 ATS against the NFC East over the last five seasons (+$451), covering by 4.0 PPG. Since leaving the NFC East in 2002, Cards are 32-17 ATS vs. their old division. (ATS)
-  Cardinals are the 7th team since 2010 to enter regular season with win total under 6 and play b2b divisional games within first four weeks of regular season. Those teams are 1-5 SU and 2-4 ATS after that divisional stretch, losing by 8.5 PPG.
-  It is no shock to anyone that Jacoby Brissett and Jameis Winston have faced off just once in their careers. The O/U was 46.5 and the Colts and Bucs combined for 72 total pts that day.

Game script

Philadelphia plays without DeVonta Smith, Hollywood Brown and Dallas Goedert (all out on the 10/03 feed) plus its second tight end, so the offense narrows to Jalen Hurts' legs (+175 to score, per Gilles Gallant) and Saquon Barkley (69+ rushing, +116). Showers are likely during the game (NWS 77% at 2 PM ET). The Rams move the ball at 6.3 yards per play: Matthew Stafford (250+) to Puka Nacua (67+ at -114; Brandon Anderson has his catches over 6.5) and Davante Adams (+116 to score), and Kyren Williams at -118 to score. The Eagles score 18.3 a game. Rams by five, covering -3.5; 41 points, under 42.5.

Why the card leans this way

The named experts lean PHI: Steve Fezzik (Even Money, +3.5 contest pick and +3 for 2 units, citing the Rams' travel), Sharp or Square (Simon Hunter), Chad Millman (+3), Matt Moore (+2.5), Jason Radowitz of BettingPros (+3) and a Ross Tucker lean. LAR: BettingPros (-2.5), Andrew Erickson and Action Network's preview (-3.5), Matt Youmans of VSiN (moneyline, a best bet), Joe Gibbs (-3; home dogs cover 37% under this referee), Evan Abrams and Mike Florio (Rams 30-20). Dave Tuley of VSiN passes. Read in full, the columns split 7-6 toward the Rams. Tickets are 50/50 on the spread, but 61% of the money is on LAR; the PHI moneyline has 23% of tickets and 15% of money. The line went from the Action Network open of LAR -2.5 to -3.5, and the total from 46 to 42.5, as the receiver news landed. The half point is Action Network against Bookmaker and could be book noise, but it crosses the 3. Most of the PHI backers bet before the receivers were ruled out, but there's a real counterweight: Evan Abrams' primer has four systems on the Eagles (a team that lost by 20 last week, underdogs off a blowout loss, fading the public after a poor offensive game, and a first-half version), so the Rams side is better as the moneyline or a parlay leg than the spread at -3.5. The lean is LAR and the under, plus Williams to score. Card: the LAR moneyline is in the Slot 3 Morning parlay, LAR -3 is a proposed SuperContest pick (book -3.5 on both SuperContest tickets), and Matthew Stafford 2+ passing TDs is in the 7a Morning prop stack. The under is left off (no full-game unders in parlays).

⚠️ What breaks it

Barkley breaks a long run; Brandon Anderson has his longest rush over 30 at +450.

Fezzik's travel case is real: a third straight trip for the Rams. Colby Parkinson is questionable for LA. Heavy rain would also slow the Rams' passing game and turn a five-point margin into a field goal.

🎙️ What the experts are saying

Philadelphia side.

Steve Fezzik (Even Money): PHI +3 for 2 units ("the Rams have had a brutal travel stretch (Australia, Denver elevation, now Philadelphia)") and PHI +3.5 as a contest pick. His co-host Ross Tucker only leans PHI because the Eagles "aren't firing on all cylinders."

Simon Hunter (Sharp or Square): PHI +3.5, his pick of the week.

Chad Millman: PHI +3, "a prime 'get-right, get-healthy' spot at home."

Matt Moore: PHI +2.5, contest pick.

Jason Radowitz (BettingPros): PHI +3.

Rams side.

Joe Gibbs, on a best-bets show: LAR -3. Under this week's referee, home underdogs cover only 37%, and the Eagles are top-five in offensive holding penalties.

Matt Youmans (VSiN): Rams moneyline at -185, a best bet.

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer) and Action Network's preview: LAR -3.5.

Evan Abrams: LAR -2.5; he "believes Eagles are a mess."

BettingPros: LAR -2.5, "solid early line value lying under a field goal."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Rams 30-20.

None of the PHI cases addresses the three Eagles receivers now out.

No play. Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes on this game.

Props. Brandon Anderson has Puka Nacua over 6.5 catches (+123), with a ladder up to 13, and Saquon Barkley's longest rush over 30 (+450). Gilles Gallant has Jalen Hurts to score at +175 and Davis Allen at +1000. @xEP_Network has Stafford over 252.5 passing.

Andrew Erickson has Saquon Barkley over 69.5 rushing ("the number is so low"), and Trent Conner (BettingPros) has Puka Nacua as the first touchdown scorer at +850.

- Eagles are 0-3 SU, ATS and to the under in the first quarter this season -- the only 0-3 SU team in the first quarter this season.
- When the Rams under Sean McVay face a team who is on short rest, they are 17-8 SU and 16-9 ATS, but the Rams actually went 0-3 SU in this spot last season.
- Rams have historically struggled when facing the Eagles. They are 0-4 SU over the last 5 seasons and 1-10 SU and 2-9 ATS dating back to 2005. McVay and Stafford are 0-4 SU vs Eagles, losing by 9.8 PPG.
- Great teams off a loss. Since 1990, when two teams with double-digit preseason win totals are both off a loss, the favorite is 14-27-1 ATS, failing to cover the spread by 3.8 PPG.

-  The Eagles and Packers have burned bettors the most this season. They are the lone 0-3 ATS teams when receiving majority ticket support this season.
-  13 teams have entered a season at 5-1 odds or shorter to win the Super Bowl and started under .500 SU through 3 games: 6 made the playoffs and just 1 made the Super Bowl, 1993-94 Cowboys.

Game script

Jalon Daniels makes his first start for Tampa Bay with Baker Mayfield out (173+ passing; Sean Koerner likes his rushing, +380 to score). Green Bay runs for only 48.7 yards a game, so Jordan Love throws (239+; Brandon Anderson over 241.5) to Christian Watson (67+) and Matthew Golden (58+) on a MEDIUM grade. The Packers are without Micah Parsons (out) and two interior linemen. Tampa Bay's targets are Emeka Egbuka (39+), Chris Godwin Jr. and Cade Otton on another MEDIUM grade. It's 87°F at kickoff. Green Bay by five, covering -3, in a 37-point game, under 39.5.

Why the card leans this way

This is the biggest move on the slate: TB went from -2.5 at the Action Network open to +3, and the total from 46 to 39.5. The named picks lean TB: Chad Millman (+3.5 home dog), Brandon Anderson (+3.5 contest pick) Action Network (TB moneyline in a dog parlay) and Wes Reynolds of VSiN (TB +9.5 as a teaser leg). The GB picks are Mike Florio (Packers 21-13) and Andrew Erickson, who lists an alternate GB -9.5 while saying his "real lean is the under," so the GB projection goes against the expert majority; Millman and Anderson both took +3.5, half a point better than now. Under: Steve Fezzik (39.5), Josh Shepardson of Sharp Football (38.5, a best bet) and Erickson's lean (38.5); Dave Tuley passes. Evan Abrams' primer splits on the side: two systems play on Green Bay after a 20-point loss, one on Tampa Bay as a winless team. Splits: TB has 53% of tickets and 49% of the money, no gap; 67% of tickets are on the over even after the total fell 6.5 points. The lean is the under 39.5, with GB -3 only while it stays at 3. The projected 37 is 2.5 under the total. Card: Single GB-TB Under 39.5 ($10), and a Jalon Daniels interception is in the 7a Morning prop stack. GB -3.5 is a SuperContest alternate.

What breaks it

Daniels' scrambling extends drives the market hasn't priced. Green Bay's turnover margin is -2; a short field or a defensive touchdown breaks the under on its own. A long

Watson touchdown early forces the Bucs to throw more than this script assumes.

What the experts are saying

Tampa Bay side.

Chad Millman: TB +3.5; he wants "to bet the Bucs as home dogs, liking the spot and fading the public sentiment on Green Bay."

Brandon Anderson: TB +3.5, contest pick.

Action Network: the TB moneyline as one leg of an underdog parlay.

Wes Reynolds (VSiN): Buccaneers +9.5 with Falcons +8.5 in his teaser of the week.

Green Bay side.

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Packers 21-13.

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer): Packers -9.5 as an alternate line, while saying "my real lean is the under."

No play. Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes on this game.

Total. Steve Fezzik, under 39.5 for 1 unit: "With Baker Mayfield out with a dislocated thumb and Green Bay's offense struggling, points will be at an absolute premium." Josh Shepardson (Sharp Football) makes under 38.5 his best bet for this game.

Props. Brandon Anderson has Jordan Love over 241.5 passing ("Packers cannot run the football right now"), with a ladder up to 400, and MarShawn Lloyd under 8.5 carries. EC has Trey Smack over 1.5 field goals. Sean Koerner has Jalon Daniels to score at +380 ("rushing upside is highly discounted in the market"). @xEP_Network has Love over 246.5. Nick Giffen (Action Network) has Kaleb Johnson's longest rush under 9.5 yards ("two of 40 career carries have gone for more than 9.5 yards") and Chase McLaughlin over 5.5 kicking points, expecting a backup-quarterback offense to stall in field-goal range.

 Sun 10:00 PT —  Tennessee Titans @  Baltimore Ravens — BAL -11.5 · O/U 43.0 · Proj TEN 16 – BAL 26

Projected final: BAL 26, TEN 16

lines imply BAL 27.2 – TEN 15.8 · projected margin BAL by 10 → covers: TEN (BAL -11.5) · total 42 vs 43.0 → Under

 Line movement (opening line: Action Network open, Sun 9/27 5:00 PM PT → Bookmaker now, 2026-10-03): spread BAL -11.5 → -11.5 · total 43.5 → 43 · moneyline TEN +525 → +492 · moneyline BAL -750 → -629

Game script

Baltimore comes back from Brazil with Ethan Pocic and a guard out, Ronnie Stanley questionable, Trey Hendrickson out and Zay Flowers questionable. Rain is likely for the first half (NWS 62–75%). Derrick Henry (98+ rushing, –245 to score, the shortest on the board) carries the revenge game, and Dave expects Lamar Jackson under 27.5 attempts. Tennessee scores 12.3 points a game; Cam Ward has Calvin Ridley on a MEDIUM grade and Tony Pollard (48+; PropStarz over 45.5) on the ground. The Ravens build an early lead and the Titans close the gap late. Baltimore by ten, so Tennessee covers +11.5; 42 points.

Why the card leans this way

TEN: Steve Fezzik ("best bet"), Ross Tucker (2 units) Kendra Middleton (the Ravens' long flight home and injuries) and Dave Tuley of VSiN (a best bet). BAL: Brandon Anderson (–11.5 and his contest pick), BettingPros, Sharp or Square (first half only, to avoid a second-half backdoor) and Mike Florio (Ravens 30–17). Splits: BAL has 66% of spread tickets and 71% of the money, but the TEN moneyline is a big-money flag, 4% of tickets and 19% of the money. Evan Abrams' primer has two systems on Tennessee (fading no-pedigree favorites, and fading the public after a poor offensive game), and Baltimore's starting center is out for two to three months. The line is unchanged from the Action Network open at –11.5; the total is down from 43.5 to 43. The lean is TEN +11.5, or BAL first half as Sharp or Square plays it; both fit a script where Baltimore leads early and Tennessee covers late. BettingPros (43.5) and Andrew Erickson (42.5) have the over, but with rain and a projected 42 the total is a pass. Card: the TEN moneyline (+492) is the long leg of the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR, and TEN +11.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets). Derrick Henry 2+ TDs is in the 8b 2+ TD 3-leg.

What breaks it

The patched Baltimore line holds, Henry gets 30 carries and the Ravens win by 17. Ward turns it over twice (Sharp or Square calls him regressing). Flowers plays a full game and stretches the field Tennessee is trying to shrink.

What the experts are saying

Tennessee side.

Steve Fezzik (Even Money): TEN +11.5, his best bet, a contest pick and 1 unit: "Baltimore got gifted their last game" and "has a long travel turnaround."

Ross Tucker (Even Money): TEN +11.5 for 2 units; the "Titans will remain competitive."

Kendra Middleton: TEN +11.5: "Ravens are coming back from Rio with a long flight, they are heavily injured, and Lamar struggles to cover big numbers."

Dave Tuley (VSiN): TEN +11.5, a best bet.

Baltimore side.

Brandon Anderson: BAL -11.5, also his contest pick: "Huge mismatch, Titans look lost."

BettingPros: BAL -11.5, a "massive talent gap," with Henry "extra motivated facing his former team."

Sharp or Square: Ravens first half only, "to avoid second-half defensive backdoor covers against a regressing Cam Ward."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Ravens 30-17.

Total. BettingPros has over 43.5: "Cam Ward pushes overs on the road." Andrew Erickson has over 42.5.

Props. PropStarz has Zay Flowers over 67.5 ("practiced in full") and Tony Pollard over 45.5 rushing against "a putrid Ravens run defense." EC has Wan'Dale Robinson over 37.5. Dave has Lamar Jackson under 27.5 pass attempts. Grant Neiffer has Pollard to score at +205 and Jackson at +250. Sal Bets has Derrick Henry over 105.5 total yards.

Game script

Houston is 0–3 and desperate. Nico Collins returns (73+) on the slate's largest secondary edge (HIGH, severity 10.09) against a Dallas secondary missing Cobie Durant, and C.J. Stroud (246+) has room to throw even with Tank Dell out. David Montgomery is the shortest scorer at –159. Dallas scores 29.3 a game: Dak Prescott (267+), CeeDee Lamb (77+; PropStarz takes the under because Houston double-teams top receivers), George Pickens (67+) and Javonte Williams (–136 to score). Dallas is also coming off the Brazil trip, Kendra Middleton's reason to fade them. The roof is retractable, with storms possible outside. Houston by four, covering –3; 48 points.

Why the card leans this way

Read in full, the experts lean Houston. HOU: Action Network (Brandon Anderson and its preview), Sharp or Square (Chad Millman and Simon Hunter, who flagged sharp money on Houston early), BettingPros at –1.5, Jason Radowitz of BettingPros at –2.5, Stuckey, Kendra Middleton, Jason Logan, PJ Walsh's PRO projection at –3, and Wes Reynolds and Zachary Cohen of VSiN on the moneyline. DAL: Steve Fezzik (+3.5), Ross Tucker (teased to +8.5), Matt Moore (+2.5), Joe Gibbs, BettingPros at +1.5, Travis Pulver of BettingPros (moneyline), Dave Tuley of VSiN (+3.5, and +8.5 in teasers as his best bet) and Mike Florio (Cowboys 27–20). Evan Abrams' primer adds two Houston-side notes: the winless-team system plays on the Texans, and road underdogs coming off an international game are 1–12 straight up in their last 13 since 2018. Signals conflict: DAL has 80% of spread tickets and 83% of the money, yet the line moved against them from the Action Network open of HOU –1.5 to –3, a reverse move. Meanwhile the DAL moneyline is a big-money flag (54% of tickets, 73% of money). Every HOU –2.5 position is now at –3, the key number. The lean is Houston, but the spread price is gone: the HOU moneyline (–160) as a parlay leg or Collins receiving. The projection sits half a point under 48.5. Joe Gibbs has the over at 47.5 (a penalty-heavy crew) and Andrew Erickson the under 48.5, so pass the total. Card: the HOU moneyline leads the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay, and David Montgomery 2+ TDs is in the 8b 2+ TD 3-leg. HOU -2.5 is a SuperContest alternate. The DAL moneyline big-money flag is the counter.

What breaks it

Collins is on a snap limit; Gilles Gallant's Xavier Hutchinson touchdown price assumes that. Prescott wins the shootout, and Dallas' 57% third-down rate keeps Stroud on the bench. A Dallas cover at +3 is a field-goal game. Joey Porter Jr., acquired by Dallas, carries no injury designation and could debut, which patches part of the secondary Collins is attacking.

What the experts are saying

Houston side.

Chad Millman and Simon Hunter (Sharp or Square): HOU -2.5, noting "sharp money moving toward Houston early."

Brandon Anderson (Action Network): HOU -2.5: a "desperate 0-3 team in a strong spot with Nico Collins returning to face a decimated Dallas secondary."

Stuckey: "I'm going with the Houston Texans minus two and a half at home."

Kendra Middleton: HOU -2.5, "fading the Cowboys' travel back from Brazil."

Jason Logan: HOU -2.5: "Cowboys in 2nd straight away game with injuries stacking up."

BettingPros: HOU -1.5, for the Collins return.

Jason Radowitz (BettingPros): HOU -2.5.

PJ Walsh (Action Network PRO projection): HOU -3, with 80% of spread tickets on Dallas.

Wes Reynolds (VSiN): Texans moneyline: "0-3 teams playing a team with at least one win in Week 4 are 24-9-1 ATS (73%)."
Zachary Cohen (VSiN): Texans moneyline.

The other HOU spread picks were at -2.5 or better; the line is now -3, where Walsh took it.

Dallas side.

Steve Fezzik (Even Money): DAL +3.5 as a contest pick, in two contests. His co-host Ross Tucker teases DAL to +8.5.

Joe Gibbs, on a best-bets show: Dallas has "the better overall offensive health to keep pace in what should be a highly volatile, penalty-driven game."

Matt Moore: DAL +2.5, contest pick. Dave Tuley (VSiN): DAL +3.5, and the Cowboys +8.5 in teasers as his best bet. Travis Pulver (BettingPros): Cowboys moneyline at +136.

BettingPros: DAL +1.5 ("Dak Prescott is playing at an MVP level").

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Cowboys 27–20.

Total. Joe Gibbs has over 47.5: the referee crew "heavily flags roughing the passer and unnecessary roughness, extending drives." Andrew Erickson has under 48.5.

Props. PropStarz has CeeDee Lamb under 77.5. Gilles Gallant has Ryan Flournoy to score at +360 and Xavier Hutchinson at +380. @xEP_Network has Prescott over 270.5 and Stroud under 245.5. PFF has David Montgomery to score: he "has taken three of the Texans' four carries inside the 5-yard line."

Game script

Minnesota is 3–0 because of its defense: 13.7 points allowed and a 22.7% third-down rate allowed under Brian Flores. The offense gains only 4.3 yards per play, and Justin Jefferson is out. Kyler Murray is listed active on the 10/03 feed, but Bookmaker had no Minnesota passing market at its 10/03 capture (BetOnline priced him at 183+ on Oct 2), so the QB status needs a check. Aaron Jones Sr. (–200 to score at BetOnline), Jordan Addison and T.J. Hockenson carry the offense. Miami is without De'Von Achane; Malik Willis (170+ passing) throws to Malik Washington (39+) and Chris Bell (35+), with Jaylen Wright (29+) in the backfield. It's a fixed-roof stadium. Minnesota by eight, so Miami covers +10; 36 points, under 38.5.

Why the card leans this way

MIA: Action Network (+11), Sharp or Square (+11), Stuckey, and three more at +10.5: PJ Walsh's PRO projection, and Steve Makinen and Wes Reynolds of VSiN. MIN: Derrik Klassen (–10.5) and Mike Florio (Vikings 24–14); Dave Tuley passes. Under: Doug Kezirian of Action Network and SDQL GURU (38.5), Josh Shepardson of Sharp Football (39, a best bet), Andrew Erickson (39.5) and BettingPros (41.5). Evan Abrams' primer has two systems on Miami (fading no-pedigree favorites, and the winless-team system). There are two big-money flags on Miami: MIA +10 has 30% of tickets and 46% of the money, and the MIA moneyline has 4% of tickets and 26% of the money. The line went from the Action Network open of MIN –10.5 to –10, and the total from 42.5 to 38.5. The lean is MIA +10. The under is the right side but four points are already gone; Action Network's Evan likes Willis' rushing over as the prop. Card: Single MIA +10 ($15) is the biggest single, MIA +10 is also in the Slot 5 Hybrid, and MIA +10.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (book +10 on both SuperContest tickets). The 7b Afternoon prop stack carries a Malik Willis interception, a deliberate partial hedge against the MIA spread.

What breaks it

Minnesota's defense scores, or Willis turns it over twice under pressure from Flores, and the Vikings win by 14. If Murray doesn't start, Minnesota's offense gets even thinner, which helps the under and the Miami cover but adds noise. Recheck at the 11:35 PT inactive window.

What the experts are saying

Miami side.

Action Network: MIA +11: a "classic buy-low, sell-high spot taking +11 with 0-3 Miami against a lucky 3-0 Vikings team with a broken offense." Sharp or Square also took +11, and Stuckey said "I'm taking the eleven with Miami... we'll call it ten and a half." All three got more than the current +10.

PJ Walsh (Action Network PRO projection): MIA +10.5.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): "Miami +10.5 for me at Minnesota."

Wes Reynolds (VSiN): MIA +10.5; it's "just as difficult to lay double digits with a team that has been struggling so much offensively."

Minnesota side.

Derrik Klassen: MIN -10.5 is "highly reasonable" with Brian Flores' defense facing a Dolphins team led by Malik Willis; he expects a score "around 17-3."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Vikings 24-14.

Dan Servodidio (BettingPros): the Vikings moneyline with Aaron Jones Sr. to score, as a touchdown-and-win parlay.

No play. Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes on this game.

Total. Doug Kezirian has under 38.5, citing Minnesota's "league-worst EPA per play among 3-0 teams over the last decade." BettingPros has under 41.5, now three points worse. Josh Shepardson (Sharp Football) makes under 39 his best bet, Andrew Erickson has under 39.5, and SDQL GURU lists under 38.5 among its sharp unders.

Props. Action Network's Evan makes Malik Willis over rushing yards his best bet, expecting him "to scramble frequently." Grant Neiffer has Malik Washington to score at +470 and Kyler Murray at +370.

- Ignoring preseason expectations, Dolphins are still having a start for the ages. Since 2002, only two other teams have scored fewer than 14 pts in each of their first 3 games while losing by 14+ PPG to begin the year: 2019 Dolphins (of course) and 2008 Rams. Since 1990, only two teams entered the season with a win total under 5

- The lookahead over/under in Dolphins-Vikings was 43.5 -- that has dramatically come down now. With any closing total of under 41, it would be the lowest O/U in any Kyler Murray start in his career (91 total starts).

- Vikings are the first team to start 3-0 SU with under 250 total yards in each game since the 1957 Browns, who had Jim Brown as a rookie with MVP.
- Dolphins are struggling to score this year, averaging just 12 PPG. Kyler Murray has faced 21 teams in his career averaging under 20 PPG on the season -- Kyler is 15-6 ATS in those games, covering by 3.8 PPG.

-  Teams who are 3-0 SU and ATS are just 18-33-2 against the first half spread in their 4th game, failing to cover that 1H spread by almost 3 PPG. That is the Vikings, Bills and Raiders this week.
-  We've reached the part of the year where history just says bet the bad teams. Double-digit underdogs who are 0-3 SU are 34-22-3 (60%) ATS in the Super Bowl era. Going back to 2005, those teams are 1-11 SU in the first half, but 9-3 1H ATS.

Game script

Two 3-0 teams in a dome. Patrick Mahomes (237+) has Kenneth Walker III (87+ rushing, -181 to score), Rashee Rice (57+; PropStarz over 54.5) and Travis Kelce (48+). Las Vegas answers with Kirk Cousins (223+), Ashton Jeanty (58+, -136 to score) and Brock Bowers (74+; Grant Neiffer has him +200 to score). The Raiders are +5 in turnovers, and Maxx Crosby is Pat Fitzmaurice's reason to expect a slower Chiefs offense. Kansas City allows 16.7 points a game. Chiefs by three, so the Raiders cover +4.5; 47 points.

Why the card leans this way

LV: Sharp or Square (twice, "divisional home underdog"), Even Money (both hosts, best bet: Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker), Pat Fitzmaurice, Simon Hunter, who already bet it, and Dave Tuley of VSiN (a best bet). KC: BettingPros (twice), Andrew Erickson, Derek Brown and Mike Florio (Chiefs 23-16). Splits: KC has 52% of tickets and 55% of the money on the spread, and the LV moneyline has 11% of tickets and 10% of the money, no gap. Evan Abrams' primer backs the Raiders: its home-dog-against-an-undefeated-team system is 101-66-4, and when two undefeated teams meet in Week 4 or later, the home team is 25-17-1 against the spread. The line moved toward the Raiders, from the Action Network open of KC -5.5 to -4.5. The lean is LV +4.5, with Bowers receiving as the prop. Total opinions lean under: Pat Fitzmaurice, Derek Brown and Steve Makinen of VSiN at 47.5 and Wes Reynolds at 48, against Fezzik (47.5) and BettingPros (46.5) on the over. With the projection at 47, that's a small under lean, not a bet. Card: the LV moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR (LV +4.5 is a SuperContest alternate), and Patrick Mahomes 2+ passing TDs is in the 7b Afternoon prop stack: a Chiefs win by 3 or less cashes both.

What breaks it

Mahomes and Walker score early, Cousins has to chase, and the +5 turnover luck reverses: a Kansas City win by ten. If Walker gets the red-zone work BettingPros expects, the Chiefs cover by scoring touchdowns instead of field goals.

What the experts are saying

Raiders side.

Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money): LV +4.5, a best bet from both hosts.

Sharp or Square: LV +4.5, twice. The Raiders are "operating efficiently with Kirk Cousins and Brock Bowers against a young Chiefs defense," and a divisional home underdog is "historically strong."

Simon Hunter: already bet the Raiders, though he says pros calling in think he and Chad Millman "are totally overrating this Raiders team."

Pat Fitzmaurice: LV +4.5; "the Raiders keep the game close." Matt Moore: LV +4.5, contest pick.

Dave Tuley (VSiN): LV +4.5, a best bet.

Chiefs side.

BettingPros: KC -4.5, twice: "Patrick Mahomes' smallest line ever vs. Raiders."

Derek Brown: KC -4.5; he expects the Chiefs' defense to "shut down the Raiders' key playmakers."

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer): KC -4.5.

Dan Servodidio (BettingPros): the Chiefs moneyline with Travis Kelce to score: "Kelce has found the end zone in back-to-back games."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Chiefs 23-16.

Total. Over: Steve Fezzik at 47.5 and BettingPros at 46.5. Under 47.5: Pat Fitzmaurice (Maxx Crosby limits the Chiefs) and Derek Brown ("an uglier game than anticipated"). Steve Makinen (VSiN) has under 47.5 and Wes Reynolds (VSiN) under 48.

Props. PropStarz has Rashee Rice over 54.5. Grant Neiffer has Xavier Worthy to score at +240 and Brock Bowers at +200. Sal Bets has Ashton Jeanty under 26.5 receiving. Nick Giffen (Action Network) has Jeanty's longest rush under 12.5 yards, projecting it to hit about 59.5% of the time. Trent Conner (BettingPros) has Kelce as the first touchdown scorer at +1000.

Game script

San Francisco is without Nick Bosa and Mykel Williams (both out), with Mike Evans questionable. Brock Purdy (234+) leans on Christian McCaffrey: 66+ rushing, -245 to score, and Warren Sharp and PropStarz both take his receiving over because Denver blitzes at one of the highest early-down rates and Purdy checks down against it. George Kittle (65+) adds to that. Denver: Bo Nix (223+), J.K. Dobbins (60+, +118 to score), Courtland Sutton (Gilles Gallant, +240 to score) and Jaylen Waddle (57+) on a MEDIUM grade. It's about 90°F at kickoff. The 49ers score 32.7 a game at 7.3 yards per play, so this is close. San Francisco by one: Denver covers +2.5, and 47 points goes under 48.

Why the card leans this way

This is the most one-sided expert game on the slate. DEN: Action Network, Sharp or Square, Steve Fezzik, BettingPros, Chad Millman (his "trade of the week," calling the reverse line move sharp), John Jastremski, Evan Abrams, Matt Moore, Andrew Erickson (+3) and Dave Tuley of VSiN (+8.5 in teasers, a best bet). SF: Mike Florio (49ers 24-20) and Steve Makinen of VSiN (-3, a best bet). Splits: SF has 60% of spread tickets and 64% of the money and 84% of moneyline tickets, yet the line came down from the Action Network open of SF -3 to -2.5. Every DEN +3 position is now +2.5, past the key number. The lean is DEN +2.5 or the +126 moneyline, plus McCaffrey receiving. On the total, 60% of the money is on the under against 52% of tickets, and the total is up from 45.5 to 48; small under lean. Card: the heaviest exposure on the card (about $85). The DEN moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR, the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay and the Slot 5 Hybrid; DEN +2.5 is a proposed SuperContest pick (both SuperContest tickets); DEN +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL. A 49ers win by 3 or more hurts six tickets at once.

What breaks it

The 49ers' offense, at 63% on third down, doesn't need Bosa to win a shootout: Kittle and McCaffrey beat the blitz and San Francisco wins by ten. Denver scores only 20 a game and can't keep pace if Nix is pressured. Mike Evans is a game-time decision with a rib injury (ESPN); recheck at the 11:55 PT inactive window.

What the experts are saying

Denver side: eleven sources.

Chad Millman: DEN +2.5, his trade of the week: "Reverse line move shows sharp action on Denver despite majority tickets on San Francisco."

Action Network, Sharp or Square, Steve Fezzik and BettingPros: DEN +3, against "a heavily banged-up 49ers team" that is "inflated by public perception." Those +3 numbers are half a point better than the current +2.5.

John Jastremski: DEN +2.5: "the 49ers' injury report is massive." Evan Abrams: takes "the great defense with Denver." Matt Moore: DEN +2.5, contest pick.

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer): DEN +3. Dave Tuley (VSiN): Broncos +8.5 in teasers, a best bet.

San Francisco side.

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): 49ers 24–20.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): "Give me San Francisco –3 versus Denver," one of his best bets.

Props. Warren Sharp, on a best-bets show, and PropStarz have McCaffrey over 37.5 and 39.5 receiving. Denver blitzes at the second-highest early-down rate, and "when blitzed, Brock Purdy looks McCaffrey's way immediately, yielding a 40% running back target rate." Sal Bets has McCaffrey over 4.5 catches. Brandon Anderson has Kaelon Black over 22.5 rushing, with a ladder to 60. Gilles Gallant has Courtland Sutton to score at +240 and Luke Farrell at +1100. @xEP_Network has Purdy over 229.5. Trent Conner (BettingPros) has Purdy as the first touchdown scorer at +1800.

-  The 49ers are 7-1 ATS with Ron Torbert officiating since 2020 (+$553), covering by 8.3 PPG. (ATS)

-  Bo Nix is 9-2 ATS against NFC opponents in his career (since 2024) (+$617), covering by 9.3 PPG. That is the best mark of 25 QBs with at least 10 such games since 2024. (ATS)
-  The Broncos are 4-0 straight up with Ron Torbert officiating over the last four seasons (+$565). (ML)
-  It even hurts the Broncos. Since 2020, Denver is 11-20 SU and 12-19 ATS going on the road after a home game.
-  Bo Nix has 11th fourth-quarter comebacks including the playoffs in his career, the 3rd-most by any QB in his first 3 seasons since 1950. Only John Elway (12) and Derek Carr (12) had more (via ESPN).
-  The Broncos have come back down 10+ pts in consecutive games against Rams and Jaguars. Last decade, teams to win b2b games trailing by 10+ pts in each are just 7-13 ATS in their next game.
-  Since start of last season, Broncos are now 5-3 SU in games when they are trailing by more than one possession at any point, the best mark in the NFL.
-  49ers have lost 9 consecutive games ATS at home vs. NFC West, with their last cover coming back in October of 2023 -- the longest such streak for any team since the Raiders between 2003-06 with 10. When San Francisco faces a non-NFC West opponent at home, they are 9-3 SU and 8-4 ATS since 2024.
-  This will be Sean Payton's 11th total game as a head coach vs. 49ers. he was favored in the first ten (7-3 SU), with this being his first as an underdog.
-  From strictly an on-field results standpoint, Bo Nix has been a very different QB home vs road. Home: 17-3 SU, 14-6 ATS / 18-1-1 in a 7-pt teaser Road: 10-9 SU, 8-11 ATS / 16-3 in 7-pt teaser (2-10 ATS in his last 12 road starts)
-  Nobody believes in us. Since start of 2024, Bo Nix has started 20 games where the other team was receiving majority ticket support -- Nix and the Broncos are 14-6 ATS in those games, most profitable mark for any QB in that span.

Game script

Seattle's backfield is down to Emanuel Wilson (53+ rushing at -118) and George Holani (+129 to score) with Zach Charbonnet and Jadarian Price out. Sam Darnold (235+) leans on Jaxon Smith-Njigba (92+, -118 to score). The Seahawks' defense allows 3.8 yards per play. The Chargers are 0-3 and score 14.7 a game: Justin Herbert (200+) has Omarion Hampton (46+, +118 to score), and Ladd McConkey (48+) is questionable, with Brenen Thompson and Charlie Kolar out. Seattle by eight, just past the 7; 40 points, under 42.5.

Why the card leans this way

SEA: Action Network (Doug Kezirian, "a fluke loss" last week), BettingPros, Sharp or Square, Andrew Erickson (-7) and Mike Florio (Seahawks 27-13). LAC: Steve Fezzik (+7.5) and Brandon Anderson (+7.5; winless teams in Week 4 are 7-0 ATS against over-.500 teams since 2021), plus Steve Makinen and Dave Tuley of VSiN at +7, both best bets. Evan Abrams' primer splits the same way: the winless-team system plays on the Chargers, but Sam Darnold is 12-0 straight up in non-conference games over the last three seasons. Splits: SEA has 52% of spread tickets and 60% of the money, but the LAC moneyline is a big-money flag, 6% of tickets and 22% of the money. The line went from the Action Network open of SEA -6.5 to -7, and the total from 44 to 42.5. At -7 the spread sits on the key number, so the lean is the SEA moneyline as a parlay leg and the under (BettingPros at 43.5, Andrew Erickson at 42.5, and the primer's wind-under system). The projection has Seattle covering by only a point. Card: the SEA moneyline (-319, flagged chalk) sits in the Slot 3 Morning parlay and the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay, and Sam Darnold 2+ passing TDs is in the 7b Afternoon prop stack. The under is left off.

What breaks it

Brandon Anderson's winless-team trend hits: Herbert gets a garbage-time touchdown and a backdoor cover inside the 7. With two backs out, Seattle's run game stalls and Darnold turns it over. McConkey playing gives Herbert the target he's lacked.

What the experts are saying

Seattle side.

Doug Kezirian (Action Network): SEA -7, "following a fluke loss against a Chargers team making a brutal cross-country trip."

Sharp or Square and BettingPros: SEA -6.5; the Chargers "lack offensive punch." The current -7 is half a point worse.

Even Money: SEA teased to -1.

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Seahawks 27-13.

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer): Seattle -7 and under 42.5.

Chargers side.

Brandon Anderson: LAC +7.5, also his contest pick: "winless teams in Week 4 are 7-0 ATS vs over .500 teams since 2021."

Steve Fezzik: LAC +7.5, a contest pick in two contests. The current +7 is half a point worse.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): "Give me the Chargers +7." Dave Tuley (VSiN): LAC +7, a best bet.

Total. BettingPros has under 43.5: the "Chargers offense [is] unable to score effectively." Andrew Erickson has under 42.5.

Props. Dave has Keaton Mitchell over 28.5 total yards. Sean Koerner has Tre' Harris to score at +550. @xEP_Network has Darnold under 232.5.

-  Seahawks not only lost last week vs. Commanders, they also lost the money half (ATS that is). Seattle was 10-0-1 2H ATS in their last 11 games before that loss.
-  Seahawks have won 11 consecutive games outright with an NFC West opponent on deck.
-  Chargers had expectations and now not only are they 0-3, but they've scored under 17 pts in each of their first three games. Last 30 yrs, only six teams have entered the season with under 20-1 Super Bowl odds and scored under 17 pts in their first 3 games. Those teams went 0-6 SU and 0-4-2 ATS in their next game -- and only one

Game script

Carolina lost starting cornerbacks Jaycee Horn and Mike Jackson to IR, which gives Detroit a HIGH grade: Jared Goff to Amon-Ra St. Brown and Jameson Williams. Williams draws overs from Brandon Anderson (70), Steve Fezzik (51.5) and Gilles Gallant (+200 to score). Jahmyr Gibbs was -501 to score at BetOnline on Oct 2 and is Andrew Erickson's touchdown rollover pick. The other side carries the slate's highest grade (HIGH, severity 10.2) with Brian Branch out for Detroit: Bryce Young to Tetairoa McMillan, Jalen Coker (questionable) and Darren Waller, whom PropStarz, Pat Fitzmaurice and Derek Brown all take over on receiving (Sean Koerner, +260 to score). Showers are likely through the game (NWS about 60%). Detroit by four, covering -3.5; 52 points, over 51.

Why the card leans this way

DET: BettingPros (-3), Pablo Planovsky of Action Network and Mike Florio (Lions 31-21). CAR: Sharp or Square (+3.5 and +3), Even Money (best bet from both hosts, Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker, at +3.5), and Andrew Erickson, Steve Makinen of VSiN and Jason Radowitz of BettingPros, all at +3.5; Dave Tuley passes. Over: Action Network (Detroit team total), Andrew Erickson and Pablo Planovsky (51.5), and BettingPros (50.5 and 49.5, both now worse). Evan Abrams' primer has the Panthers on a 12-game run of covers after a straight-up loss, but two under systems fire (rising early-season totals, and a first-half under). Splits: DET has 64% of spread tickets and 71% of the money; the CAR moneyline has 12% of tickets and 19% of the money, no flag. The line went from the Action Network open of DET -3 to -3.5, and the total from 49.5 to 51. The side is close to a pass: the projection clears by half a point, against an expert count now 6-3 on Carolina. The lean is the receiver props: Williams and Waller receiving. Bookmaker's whole player-prop menu for this game was unpriced at the 10/03 capture, so check those prices before kickoff. Card: the DET moneyline is the Sunday-night cap on the Slot 3 Morning parlay and the Slot 4 Afternoon parlay. It's a placeholder for a live hedge, not a strong read (6–3 experts on Carolina). Jahmyr Gibbs 2+ TDs is in the 8b 2+ TD 3-leg. The island ladder is built Sunday (no Bookmaker props priced at capture).

What breaks it

Rain is the main risk: if the showers arrive, both passing games slow and the over and the receiver props lose together. Young's turnovers would hand Detroit a two-score win. If Coker sits, Carolina's offense narrows to McMillan and Waller.

What the experts are saying

Carolina side.

Steve Fezzik and Ross Tucker (Even Money): CAR +3.5, a best bet from both hosts.

Sharp or Square: CAR +3.5 ("taking Panthers assuming Bryce Young plays") and CAR +3.

Andrew Erickson (BettingPros primer): CAR +3.5 and over 51.5.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): "Carolina +3.5 as another live SNF underdog."

Jason Radowitz (BettingPros): CAR +3.5: "The Panthers are 11-4 against the spread in their last 15 games."

Detroit side.

BettingPros: DET -3. Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Lions 31-21.

Pablo Planovsky (Action Network): the Lions, with over 51.5.

No play. Dave Tuley (VSiN) passes on this game.

Total. BettingPros has the over at 50.5 and 49.5 ("neither defense is expected to stop the opposing offense"), and Action Network likes the Detroit team total over.

Props. Jameson Williams overs come from Brandon Anderson (70+ yards at +194, with a ladder to 100), Steve Fezzik (51.5) and Gilles Gallant (to score at +200): Carolina "lost top two CBs to IR." Darren Waller overs come from PropStarz and Derek Brown (26.5 yards) and Pat Fitzmaurice (2.5 catches at -155); Sean Koerner has him to score at +260 against a Lions defense that "has surrendered 6 touchdowns to tight ends." Andrew Erickson rolls his touchdown tracker onto Jahmyr Gibbs at -340. Grant Neiffer has Jalen Coker to score at +200 (Coker is questionable). @xEP_Network has Goff over 263.5 and Bryce Young over 249.5. PFF has Jahmyr Gibbs to score: "Carolina has allowed four rushing touchdowns through three games."

-  The Panthers are currently on an 12-game ATS winning streak off a SU loss dating back to 2024. That is tied for the 3rd-longest ATS win streak after a SU loss (in same season) in Super Bowl era. 2022-25 Lions and 2011-13 Colts had a streak of 13 straight games. After a SU win, Panthers are now 2-7 ATS since start of last season
-  After last week, Bryce Young is now 9-12 SU (43%) when Carolina allows under 24 pts, which is tied for the worst win pct (min 20 gms) for any QB in the Super Bowl era.
-  Dating back to last season, the Lions are 0-6 SU/ATS in their last six games after a SU win. (ATS)
-  The Panthers are 7-0 to the Under in primetime (6p ET or later) since 2020 (+$636), going under the total by 9.4 PPG. (Under)
-  Jared Goff is 13-3 ATS as a road favorite over the last four seasons (+$871), covering by 4.5 PPG. That is the best mark of 14 QBs with at least 10 such games in that span. (ATS)
-  The Panthers are 4-0 to the Over with Clay Martin officiating over the last three seasons (+$364), going over the total by 12.0 PPG. (Over)
-  The Lions are 18-4 ATS on the road after a home game over the last five seasons (+$1,233), covering by 4.3 PPG. That is the best mark of any team in the NFL in that span. (ATS)
-  The Panthers are 13-6 to the Over at home over the last three seasons (+$582), going over the total by 6.2 PPG. (Over)
-  Bryce Young has started three games in primetime with the Panthers (6p ET or later) and they are 0-3 SU, with Carolina scoring 17 pts or less in all three games.
-  Bryce Young has started 48 total games in his NFL career -- he has never closed with an over/under above 49.
-  Once cover kings: Lions haven't covered the spread in consecutive games since Weeks 2-5 of last season. Since then, they are 4-10-1 ATS in their last 15 games overall.

Game script

Monday night in a dome. New Orleans plays Tyler Shough (235+ passing at BetOnline on Oct 2) with Chris Olave on a HIGH grade (severity 5.32) against Atlanta's defense; Jordyn Tyson is out, Noah Fant is questionable (Sean Koerner, +500 to score) and Juwan Johnson has three touchdowns already (Grant Neiffer, +230). Atlanta answers with Michael Penix Jr. (205+) to Drake London and Kyle Pitts Sr. on a MEDIUM grade (Gilles Gallant has Pitts at +450). The Falcons' turnover margin is -6, the worst in this game. New Orleans by two, so Atlanta covers +2.5; 48 points, on the total.

Why the card leans this way

NO: BettingPros (twice; a Monday-night home spot), Pablo Planovsky of Action Network and Mike Florio (Saints 23-17). ATL: Sharp or Square (+3, a bottom-five Saints defense), Joe Gibbs (divisional home favorites are 12-18-1 straight up under this referee crew) Brandon Anderson (Falcons +2.5 in his four-team parlay), Steve Makinen of VSiN (+2.5; New Orleans is 4-14-1 against the spread in its last 19 Monday-night games), and Falcons +8.5 as a teaser leg from Dave Tuley (a best bet) and Wes Reynolds. Evan Abrams' primer adds the great-condition divisional road dog system on Atlanta, and the Saints have ruled out linebacker Kaden Elliss and pass rusher Carl Granderson. Splits: NO has 49% of tickets and 51% of the money on the spread, but the ATL moneyline is a big-money flag, 26% of tickets and 45% of the money. The line is unchanged at NO -2.5 since the Action Network open; the total is up from 47.5 to 48. The lean is ATL +2.5, or the +112 moneyline. BettingPros (46.5) and Pablo Planovsky (47.5) have the over; the projection sits on 48, so pass the total. Bookmaker props for this game weren't captured; this block gets a Monday rewrite after the 15:45 PT inactives. Card: the ATL moneyline is in the Slot 2 Dog-ML 2-team RR and ATL +8.5 is a leg of the 6-pt Wong teaser JAX-DEN-ATL; both settle Monday night. The Monday-night island ladder is built after the Sunday board.

⚠️ What breaks it

Atlanta's turnover problem continues: two Penix giveaways and New Orleans wins by ten. If Fant plays, Olave gets single coverage more often and the Saints' HIGH matchup becomes a big passing day.

🎙️ What the experts are saying

Atlanta side.

Joe Gibbs, on a best-bets show: divisional home favorites are 12-18-1 straight up under this week's referee, and "the Falcons are well-rested coming off a mini-bye with Penix under center."

Sharp or Square: ATL +3: the "Saints defense is bottom-five in key metrics." The current +2.5 is half a point worse.

Brandon Anderson: Falcons +2.5, one leg of his four-team parlay.

Steve Makinen (VSiN): ATL +2.5: "New Orleans is just 4-14-1 ATS in its last 19 MNF games."

Dave Tuley and Wes Reynolds (VSiN): Falcons +8.5 in teasers; it's Tuley's best bet, and Reynolds pairs it with Buccaneers +9.5 as his teaser of the week.

New Orleans side.

BettingPros: NO -2.5, twice: "High emotion in New Orleans for Monday Night Football and the Katrina 20th anniversary," and the Falcons' strong showing "may be an overreaction to facing a struggling Packers team."

Mike Florio (Pro Football Talk): Saints 23-17.

Pablo Planovsky (Action Network): the Saints, with over 47.5.

Total. BettingPros has over 46.5; it projects a fair line "closer to 48.5," which is where it is now.

Props. Grant Neiffer has Juwan Johnson to score at +230, Gilles Gallant has Kyle Pitts Sr. at +450, and Sean Koerner has Noah Fant at +500 (Fant is questionable). @xEP_Network has Tyler Shough over 254.5.

7. What the Experts Say: Consensus & Clashes

Section 7: What the Experts Say: Consensus & Clashes

What the experts are saying, counted fairly. We collect picks from betting podcasts, YouTube shows and betting writers, then count each source once per game on the side it picked most. A lopsided count (for example 6–1) means broad agreement; a clash means credible sources are split. The table ranks games from the strongest agreement down.

How to read this section

- Source: one outlet, podcast host or writer. Outlets that publish several writers (ESPN, VSiN) still count as one vote.
- For – Against: sources backing the consensus side vs. the other side. Ties inside one source are dropped.

- Strength (the table is ordered by this first): 🌟 Near-unanimous = at least 3× as many sources on one side, or none against · 🔥 Majority = ahead by 2 or more · ⚔️ Clash = ahead by only 1 · ⚖️ Split = dead even.
- Total lean: whether more sources picked the Over or the Under.
- Agreement is not a guarantee. Heavy consensus on a popular side can already be priced into the line; see the big-money column in Section 6.

Sides

- Action Network — spread Miami Dolphins 11 — Classic buy-low, sell-high spot taking +11 with 0-3 Miami against a lucky 3-0 Vikings team with a broken offense and Justin Jefferson potentially sitting out.
- Sharp or Square — spread Miami Dolphins 11 — Fading an overvalued 3-0 Vikings team taking double-digit points with the Dolphins.

Totals

- Action Network — total UNDER 38.5 — Doug likes the under, highlighting Minnesota's league-worst EPA per play among 3-0 teams over the last decade and Miami's offensive ineptitude.
- BettingPros — total UNDER 41.5 — Dolphins offense severely limited without De'Von Achane facing Brian Flores' defense, plus Justin Jefferson banged up for Minnesota.

Player props

- Action Network — player_prop Malik Willis OVER rushing yards — Evan's best bet for the game expecting Willis to scramble frequently when facing heavy pressure from Brian Flores' defense.

Kansas City Chiefs @ Las Vegas Raiders — 7 picks

Sides

- BettingPros — spread Kansas City Chiefs -4.5 — Patrick Mahomes' smallest line ever vs. Raiders; Chiefs fans will invade Vegas for a battle for first place, and Kansas City looks like a juggernaut Super Bowl contender
- Sharp or Square — spread Las Vegas Raiders 4.5 — Raiders offense is operating efficiently with Kirk Cousins and Brock Bowers against a young Chiefs defense.
- Even Money — spread Las Vegas Raiders 4.5 — Best bet. Both hosts taking Raiders +4.5 at home against 3-0 Chiefs.
- BettingPros — spread Chiefs -4.5 — Kansas City in a good spot laying reasonable points on the road, with Kareem Walker heavily featured in red zone touches.
- Sharp or Square — spread Las Vegas Raiders 4.5 — Divisional home underdog Raiders +4.5 vs Chiefs; historically strong situational spot.

Totals

- Even Money — total OVER 47.5 — Fezzik expects scoring pace to hit the over in division clash.
- BettingPros — total OVER 46.5 — Mahomes playing in a dome and effective Raiders offense with Brock Bowers back set up well for points.

Denver Broncos @ San Francisco 49ers — 4 picks

Sides

- Action Network — spread Denver Broncos 3 — Valuable key number of +3 on the road with a elite defense against a heavily banged-up 49ers team.
- Sharp or Square — spread Denver Broncos 3 — Broncos defense is battle-tested while the 49ers are beat up with key injuries and inflated by public perception.
- Even Money — spread Denver Broncos 3 — Fezzik backing Broncos +3 against an injury-ravaged 49ers roster.
- BettingPros — spread Broncos 3 — San Francisco continues to deal with mounting injuries on defense while Denver's defense can keep the game tight.

Los Angeles Chargers @ Seattle Seahawks — 6 picks

Sides

- Action Network — spread Seattle Seahawks -7 — Doug backs Seattle following a fluke loss against a Chargers team making a brutal cross-country trip.
- Even Money — spread Los Angeles Chargers 7.5 — Steve Fezzik's contest pick taking Chargers +7.5 on the road at Seattle.
- Even Money — teaser Seattle Seahawks -1 — [TEASER — 6-pt teaser leg (not Wong): SEA -7 → -1; market -3] Teaser leg (-6 points from -7 to -1) on Seattle coming off a tough loss.
- BettingPros — spread Seahawks -6.5 — Seattle playing at home motivated off a loss against a struggling Chargers squad that lacks offensive punch.
- Sharp or Square — spread Seattle Seahawks -6.5 — Taking Seahawks -6.5 at home against a heavily struggling Chargers squad.

Totals

- BettingPros — total UNDER 43.5 — Chargers offense unable to score effectively even with turnover opportunities; strong Seattle defense at home.

Detroit Lions @ Carolina Panthers — 8 picks

Sides

- Sharp or Square — spread Carolina Panthers 3.5 — Lions defense has injuries and struggles against the blitz; taking Panthers assuming Bryce Young plays.
- Even Money — spread Carolina Panthers 3.5 — Best bet. Both hosts backing Panthers +3.5 at home against vulnerable Lions road defense.
- BettingPros — spread Detroit Lions -3 — Warmly likes laying the field goal with Detroit on the road.
- Sharp or Square — spread Carolina Panthers 3 — Backing Carolina as a home underdog +3 against Detroit.

Totals

- Action Network — total OVER — Lions team total over recommended due to Carolina losing starting corners Jaycee Horn and Mike Jackson to IR.
- BettingPros — total OVER 50.5 — Lions defense struggles to stop the pass, while Bryce Young and Panthers offense are improving; neither defense is expected to stop the opposing offense in good early Oct
- BettingPros — total OVER 49.5 — Panthers defense struggles to stop Lions offensive playmakers (Gibbs, Montgomery, St. Brown, LaPorta) and Lions secondary is banged up.

Player props

- Even Money — player_prop Jameson Williams OVER receiving yards 51.5 — Carolina lost top two CBs to IR; Detroit's receivers should capitalize.

Atlanta Falcons @ New Orleans Saints — 4 picks

Sides

- BettingPros — spread New Orleans Saints -2.5 — High emotion in New Orleans for Monday Night Football and the Katrina 20th anniversary vs. archrival Falcons; Saints looking to bounce back after fourth-quarter collapse.
- Sharp or Square — spread Atlanta Falcons 3 — Saints defense is bottom-five in key metrics; taking Falcons getting a key field goal hook in a tight division game.

- BettingPros — spread New Orleans Saints -2.5 — Saints are the better team playing at home; Falcons' recent strong performance may be an overreaction to facing a struggling Packers team.

Totals

- BettingPros — total OVER 46.5 — Fast-paced dome game with explosive playmakers on both sides; analysts project fair line closer to 48.5.

9. Betting Trends & Systems

 Section 9: Betting Trends & Systems

Betting trends are history, not a forecast. A record like "11-0 against the spread" can be real and still be luck; use trends to break ties between picks you already like, not as a reason on their own. Below, every trend we captured this week is tied to the game and the side it points to.

>  Our own model rule: our computer prop model failed its accuracy test (it was less accurate than simply using the betting line). We never use a model edge to pick or size bets.

Build rules from the season record:

#	RULE	EVIDENCE (SEASON, UNIQUE LEGS)
1	No -120 to -100 connector legs unless sourcing tier 1-2 (Section 4). Take -121 or longer, or plus money.	31-45-1, 41% vs 53% needed, -23% (n=76), bad both weeks
2	Underdog spreads are allowed when the matchup and price case are stated. Do not use points merely to make a parlay leg feel safer.	Week 1 spread dogs were 10-20, -44%; that is a review signal, not a prohibition.
3	Lean on tackles+assists and passing TDs. Keep sacks and receiving yards to a minimum.	T+A 9-4 +22%, pass TD 8-3 +14%; rec yds -27%, receptions -18%, sacks 2-3
4	Props go on the side you expect to win. Never stack an offense you fade elsewhere on the card.	56% vs 39% (Week 2)
5	Each starting QB is one shared risk across every leg on his offense. Count those legs as one exposure.	MNF Dart injury: Giants legs 4-15
6	ML chalk $\leq$ -290 is not a free anchor. Flag it; one per ticket at most.	6-4 vs ~78% implied; TB -410, BAL -379, LAC -292 all lost
7	Structure: 2-leg tickets and 2-team RRs first. Straight parlays of 5+ legs are moonshots only ($5, one or two a week).	All 3 Week 2 winners were 2-leg or 2-team; 5+ leg straights 0-26
8	Receptions are tight to the line. Only for proven target share on the expected winner. Yardage is bimodal, so don't pay -110 to -120 for a median line.	9 of 12 rec losses were within 1.5 catches

#	RULE	EVIDENCE (SEASON, UNIQUE LEGS)
9	Moonshot ATD stacks lose. One long-priced TD (+150 or longer) is fine as a single or in an RR.	ATD moonshots 0-11 on scorers; +150-or-longer band +20%
10	Bookmaker vs BetOnline: no edge either way (50% vs 49% after the 9/22 book correction). Choose the book by rule and price, not habit.	—
